

KHRUSHCHEV PREDICTS GAINS FROM GENEVA IF BASIS 'EQUAL'

Russia Strong, Can Wait if West Is Not Serious, He Asserts at U.S. Embassy's 4th of July Party.

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
MOSCOW, July 5 (AP)—Communist party secretary Nikita S. Khrushchev told Americans at a Fourth of July party yesterday that Russia wants an agreement "on an honest basis" at the Geneva "summit" talks but it is strong enough to wait if the West is not prepared to negotiate seriously.

He predicted that "something will come" of the Big Four talks if they are held "on an equal basis . . . honest and sincere."

Khrushchev's host at the United States Embassy's party, Charge d'Affaires Walter N. Wamsley, replied: "I do not think the President of the United States would go to Geneva without serious reasons."

Surprise Appearance.
The Communist party chief and other top Russian officials, including Premier Bulganin, put in a surprise appearance at the party, held in the elm-shaded garden of Spasso House, Ambassador Charles E. Bohlen's residence. Former Premier Georgi Malenkov, First Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan and Lazar Kaganovich and Defense Minister Georgi Zhukov were among the Soviet bigwigs on hand. No such high-ranking group of Soviet leaders have ever before attended an embassy function.

With Bohlen in the United States helping Mr. Eisenhower prepare for the Geneva talks, Wamsley and Mrs. Bohlen did the honors.

In a speech he said he wanted to make to the guests, Khrushchev said the Russians are not going to the July 18 conference "with broken legs"—crippled by harvest failures or other breakdowns in the Soviet economy.

'Upright Like Soldiers.'

"We are going upright like soldiers to meet with worthy partners, and that is the only right way," he declared. "If we talk on an equal basis, all parties and if the talks are honest and sincere, equal to equal, something will come of it."

Khrushchev looked around for Bulganin at this point and when he saw that the Premier had moved away said:

"Bulganin knows what I was going to say. I have discussed it with him and he agrees with me as do Mikoyan and Kaganovich. "I told you because there is still time to think. If we go to Geneva as merchants then there is no reason to go."

Bulganin moved over an interjected: "Yes, I support him," and Kaganovich added: "Yes, we all support him."

Asserting that people in the West "pay little attention to what we say and prefer to read tea leaves," Khrushchev told Wamsley:

"They ponder why the Soviet Union has made so many proposals that please the West so much. Of course, we made these proposals not for the purpose of pleasing somebody. We made these decisions because they were the right decisions and this is what motivated us."

Not Forced to Act, He Says.

The Soviet chief added that some people "think that if the Soviet Union makes a contribution there was something that forced it to make that decision and even that the Soviet Union was afraid of some catastrophe if he did not do it."

Wamsley commented that the

35 CONVICTS RIOT IN WASHINGTON STATE PRISON

Six Officials and Two Guards Seized as Hostages — Recreation Director Beaten.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 5 (UP)—Thirty-five dangerous convicts armed with knives and razor blades rioted in the state penitentiary here today and seized a parole officer, five prison officials and two guards as hostages.

A prison recreation director was beaten and released. He told reporters from his hospital bed he didn't know what had happened.

Prison business manager William Connell, in charge during the absence of Warden Lawrence Delmore, said at 2:15 p.m. (St. Louis time):

"The convicts have complete control of No. 1 wing, the control room area and the kitchen. The No. 1 wing is the maximum security cell block where the toughest inmates are confined. The control room area is where inmates are interviewed regarding parole, transfer and grievances."

Meeting Demanded.
The convicts demanded a meeting with Connell at 6 p.m. (St. Louis time). Connell talked with one of the hostages, Theodore Beberides, assistant superintendent for custody, who quoted the convicts as saying if violence were used against the rioters, violence would be used against the hostages.

In addition to Beberides, the rioters were holding parole officer W. S. Storey, vocational counselor Jess Bentley, Capt. Al Rembolt, control room deskman Bert Jenkins, assignment officer Harold Bennis and two unidentified guards.

When the convicts began rioting, they took assistant recreation director B. W. (Boots) Fain hostage and beat him, and let him go. "I don't know what happened," said Fain from his prison hospital bed.

Delay Urged.

Bizerides told Connell that he favored holding off any action against the rioters until the 6 p.m. meeting.

Connell said he was against prison rules to release the names of the convicts but he admitted that one of the ringleaders had escaped three times.

"He's a rough customer," Connell said.

State patrolmen, Walla Walla county sheriff's deputies, Walla Walla policemen and off-duty guards rushed to the prison as soon as the riot started. All were armed with riot guns.

The last disturbance at the penitentiary was a hunger strike last fall. The last riot was in September, 1953.

Champagne Fountain, Bermuda Shots Put Zip in Outlaw Outing

CHICAGO, July 5 (INS)—Chicago's annual "outlaw outing," given by crime syndicate chieftain Tony Accardo, was a smashing success.

More than 300 assorted gangsters, extortionists, con men, hoodlums and "associates" gathered at Accardo's palatial River Forest estate for the Fourth of July champagne fountain.

MIKOYAN INVITED TO NEW YORK'S SWANK 21 CLUB

MOSCOW, July 5 (AP)—New York's ultra-capitalist Twenty-One club has invited an ultra-Communist to drop around for a meal.

A caviar buyer for the swanky Fifty-second street restaurant, Malcolm Beyer, said he extended the invitation to Soviet Deputy Premier A. I. Mikoyan at the American Embassy's July 4 reception yesterday. The American reported that Mikoyan, who has visited the United States before, replied he would be around the next time he is in New York.

Beyer said he had lined up 44 tons of caviar for his restaurant, 17 tons in Moscow and the rest in Iran. The price was not disclosed, but the stuff retails for $35 a pound in New York.

Beyer is the first American caviar buyer to visit Russia since the war. Previous purchases have been arranged through Soviet trade agencies in Western countries or through Iran.

BRITISH QUEEN SAVES ONE OF TWO DOOMED WOMEN

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Queen Elizabeth II today saved one of two women condemned to die for murder from the gallows.

The Queen's mercy—automatic on the recommendation of the Home Secretary—reduced to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed on Mrs. Sarah Lloyd, 40 years old, for beating a woman neighbor to death with a shovel.

In British prisons, a life sentence normally runs 12 years. Mrs. Lloyd was reprieved just two days before she was due to be hanged. Mrs. Lloyd, mother of a 13-year-old girl, was convicted of killing Mrs. Edith Emsley, 86, after a quarrel.

The Lloyd reprieve spurred hopes of petitioners seeking clemency for the other woman still in a prison "death house"—Ruth Ellis, 28.

Mrs. Ellis, a divorcee and mother of two young children, was convicted of murdering one of her two lovers. She has refused to appeal the sentence. She is due to be hanged July 13.

Petitions for clemency for Mrs. Ellis are being circulated in railway stations and market places up and down the country.

PRINCESS MARGARET HAS A NEW GLAMOUR HAIR-DO

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Princess Margaret came up today with a new glamour hair-do—a short, off-the-face swirl of curls on one side and a languid forward sweep on the other.

For the initiative in Mayfair's best hairdressing salons that is The Imperial. Hair-styling experts said it does things for the Princess's oval face.

It is the fourth hair-style worn by Margaret in six months. The others were known respectively as the Josephine, the Bun Penny and the Italian cut.

Terror Campaign Against Revolt Threat in Hungary Reported Middle-of-Night Arrests, Checking of Identification Papers Indicate Trouble—Premier Said to Be Missing.

VIENNA, July 5 (UP)—Communist Hungarian police were reported today to have instituted a campaign of terror to crush an incipient revolt.

Reliable western sources said Red police about two weeks ago opened their campaign with raids, middle-of-the-night arrests, personal and automobile identification checks and long interrogation of suspected anti-government persons.

Premier Andras Hedeagus was reported missing after a disagreement with Hungarian Communist strong man Matyas Rakosi. The Premier took office only last April when Premier Imre Nagy was ousted in line with the changed policy of the Kremlin.

The independent Vienna newspaper Neuer Kurier said reports it had received from Budapest in the past 48 hours indicated a state of semi-emergency existed in Hungary.

The newspaper said the police were forced to take strong action because of the growing undercurrent of rebellion. Western sources said they could not confirm the newspaper reports, but that police in the last two weeks have been conducting a terror campaign in which even the British and American legations were under surveillance.

The Neuer Kurier said that its reports asserted:

U.S. PREPARING COLDY CORRECT RECEPTION FOR TURNCOAT G.I.S

Three P.O.W.s Who Chose to Remain With Chinese Reds Due at Hong Kong on Saturday.

HONG KONG, July 5 (AP)—United States officials are arranging a coldy correct reception for three American turncoat prisoners of war who are expected to cross into Hong Kong Saturday from Red China.

The Communist Chinese Red Cross informed the Indian Red Cross in New Delhi yesterday of the July 9 arrival date for the three Korean war veterans who stayed with the Communists after the 1953 armistice, then recently changed their minds.

The men are Lewis W. Griggs of Olympia, Wash., and William A. Cowart of Dalton, Ga. Cowart originally asked to be sent to Japan but recent reports from Peiping have said he now prefers to return to the United States.

To Be Held Accountable. The United States Defense and Justice Departments so far have not said what action would be taken against the men. The departments last word, in a joint statement last month, was that any American prisoner electing to stay in Red China would be held accountable "for any wrongful act he may have committed."

The Indian Red Cross asked the British Red Cross to meet the three men when they reached the border by train from Canton.

The State Department already has announced they will receive passports valid only for return to the United States. A department spokesman in Washington said yesterday their transportation would be arranged for them if they have no money, but like any other stranded Americans they will have to sign notes for funds advanced to them.

Belgians Not Mentioned. The Indian Red Cross announcement made no mention of the two Belgians, Roger Devriendt and Louis Verdijk, also slated to leave Red China. Last Friday the Peiping radio reported that all five turncoats had gotten drunk in the Red Chinese capital, disturbed the peace, reviled police and manhandled other persons. The broadcast said Bell and Verdijk were arrested.

Griggs, Bell and Cowart were among 23 American P.O.W.s who chose to stay with the Communists. Two later came home and are now serving prison terms. Peiping announced recently that another of the men had died.

Bell's wife said at her home in Olympia, Wash., yesterday that her biggest concern is "will he be tried by a military or a civilian court." She said she believed her husband would receive more equitable treatment from a civilian tribunal.

At her home in Jacksonville, Tex., Griggs' mother said yesterday, "I trust in the Lord that justice will be done in my son's case."

Cowart's mother, Mrs. Chester Green of Monticello, Ark., said that she was glad to hear that her son had decided to come to the United States instead of Japan, but she added:

IRRIGATION BILL SIGNED RELUCTANTLY BY PRESIDENT

CAMP DAVID, Md., July 5 (AP)—President Eisenhower signed yesterday "with reluctance" a bill to provide for the construction of distribution systems on authorized federal reclamation projects by irrigation districts and other public agencies.

The President issued the following statement in connection with the signing:

"I have done so with reluctance for while the purpose of the bill, of promoting the fullest co-operation between the Federal Government and local agencies in water utilization projects, is a highly desirable one, the manner in which the bill seeks to achieve that purpose is seriously deficient in protecting the interests of the United States. I shall shortly send to the Congress a special message requesting the correction of such defects."

The President did not spell out his objections to the bill, but it is understood the Administration's position is that the bill prevent the Federal Government from retaining title to the distribution systems so that the Interior Secretary would have no recourse if the local agencies should default on their obligations.

Senators Stand in Prayer For Recovery of Johnson

President Sends Wishes for Speedy Health—Majority Leader Out of Senate for Session.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Senators stood for a minute in silent prayer today for the recovery of Majority Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, who suffered a heart attack Saturday.

President Eisenhower, before beginning his business day, sent personal wishes to Johnson for a speedy recovery.

A hush settled over the Senate chamber as all of the guests in the galleries and Senate attaches joined the members in the prayer for the Democratic leader.

Veteran Senate aids said they could not recall any similar mass prayer for a Senator.

Senator Herbert H. Lehman (Dem., New York), proposed the prayer after Senator Earle C. Clements of Kentucky, the acting Democratic leader, and Senator William F. Knowland of California, the minority leader, had paid tribute to Johnson.

Clements told the Senate that medical authorities had informed him Johnson "should be able to return to the Senate in January" if he continues to improve satisfactorily.

Out of Senate for Session. "Under no circumstances," Clements said, can Johnson return to his duties as Senate Democratic leader this session. Further, Clements said, Johnson may perform no duties of any kind for a "period of months" following satisfactory progress.

One Senator who visited the Bethesda Naval Hospital and talked with Johnson's doctors told a reporter that the Texas almost died Saturday.

He said that if Johnson continues to improve, he may be able to leave the hospital in three weeks but will have to take it easy for a long while.

Knowland told the Senate that Johnson "has the prayers of all of us here." The minority leader pledged Clements, acting Democratic leader, the full co-operation of Republicans in winding up legislative business of the 1955 session.

Clements said he would seek to "carry on in the same spirit" that Johnson exemplified.

The hospital said today that Johnson's condition was still serious. It said there had been no change since yesterday when he was reported to be making "satisfactory progress."

Thanks in part to Johnson's efforts in steering legislation, the Senate is well along on its work load this year.

Since few knotty legislative problems remain, most observers thought Johnson's absence would have little effect on the progress of Democratic proposals.

Johnson, 46 years old, was stricken while visiting a friend at Middleburg, Va., about an hour's drive from Washington. He began to suffer pains around the heart. A physician diagnosed the heart condition and had Johnson taken to the hospital.

There it was announced that the attack was "moderately severe" but that Johnson was "responding satisfactorily to treatment." Two doctors from the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., flew here to see him.

His wife said she would be grateful for prayers for her husband. She said Johnson would contribute to the Heart Fund or some similar activity rather than send flowers.

Co-operation Pledged. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem., Minnesota), said Clements will "have our wholehearted co-operation." He praised Johnson as "the one man able to hold the Democratic forces together in the Senate and move the program along with ease and relative speed."

Senator Irving Ives (Rep., New York), said: "The Senate just can't spare Lyndon Johnson. I'm terribly sorry to learn of his illness."

Johnson first was elected to the House in 1937. He became a Senator in 1949. In January, 1953, when the Democrats were in the minority, he became his party's floor leader—the youngest man in history to hold the position.

He has often been mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate. There was speculation that his heart condition would bar anything so strenuous as a presidential campaign.

Johnson has pushed several Administration bills through the Senate, but also lined up Democratic forces almost solidly for some bills sponsored by his party.

Just last week he cited the Senate's 1955 record as disapproving President Eisenhower's campaign remark of last year that election of a Democratic Congress would bring on a "political cold war"—a remark which the President modified after the election.

The next day Mr. Eisenhower told his press conference Congress had not enacted enough of his program, to which Johnson retorted that the Democrats were not going to take orders like "second lieutenants."

The Senator's 73-year-old mother, Mrs. Rebecca Baines Johnson, made her first airplane trip to be with him. She arrived from Austin, Tex., accompanied by Representative Thornberry (Dem., Texas). Thornberry represents Johnson's home district in the House.

KNOWLAND SAYS KILLED 3 TO AVOID DIXON-YATES PACT A.W.O.L. CHARGE, MAY BE DROPPED AIRMAN STATES

Senator Sees Eisenhower, Forecasts Action if Memphis Builds Own Plant.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Senator Knowland (Rep., California), predicted today the Dixon-Yates power contract will be canceled if Memphis goes ahead with its announced plans to build a plant of its own.

Knowland, the Senate G.O.P. leader, said after lunching with President Eisenhower, that he saw no need for the Dixon-Yates plant in West Memphis, Ark., if Memphis provides its own power.

Memphis has announced plans to provide its own power needs rather than to take energy from the Dixon-Yates power plant.

Knowland said he thought the Senate would vote to appropriate, but hold in reserve, $6,500,000 for a transmission line from the proposed Dixon-Yates plant to Memphis.

The Senate meanwhile took up a money bill carrying funds for the power line, but much of the fire appeared to have gone out of the controversy.

A year ago the Dixon-Yates issue tied up the Senate in debate for about two weeks, and foes of the contract, a symbol of the public vs. private power fight, had planned a determined fight again this year.

President Eisenhower last Thursday called for a re-study to determine whether "to continue or to cancel" the Dixon-Yates contract.

Results of that study may be forthcoming today or tomorrow from Budget Director Rowland R. Hughes, who has said "a probable result will be cancellation of the contract."

Hughes, ordered by Mr. Eisenhower to confer with officials of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Tennessee Valley Authority on the question, has promised recommendations "in time" for Senate consideration in connection with the money bill.

Senator Hubert H. Humphrey (Dem., Minnesota), said in a statement last night the Administration study is "apparently confined to a Fourth of July conference on how best to get out of a bad deal."

Many foes of the contract appeared willing to accept the solution proposed by the Senate Appropriations Committee—a proviso stating that funds for the transmission line could not be spent if Memphis, Tenn., goes ahead within 90 days with a commitment to build its own power plant, rather than buy power from Dixon-Yates.

No votes were in prospect today.

Besides funds for the TVA and the AEC, the $1,377,419,000 bill carries money for numerous rivers and harbors, flood control and reclamation projects.

Before it passed the House, TVA supporters lost in an effort to strike from the bill the $6,500,000 it carries to link the proposed Dixon-Yates plant to the TVA system. That vote, however, was taken before Mr. Eisenhower's order for a reappraisal of the project.

Dickinson, Tex., Murders Committed on Flight to Reach His Wife in Japan.

GALVESTON, Tex., July 5 (AP)—A husky airman—so afraid of being captured for being A.W.O.L., he said, that he killed three persons—sat in his cell today, apparently unconcerned about the murder charges against him.

He talked freely of killing Mrs. Ruby McPherson, 42 years old, her mother, Mrs. Zola Norman, 63, and her son, George McPherson, 12, in their home in Dickinson, Tex., near here, June 22.

The airman, Ellis Euclid Lauhon Jr., 26, told officers he was trying to reach Japan, where, he said, he has a Japanese wife. He expected to sail in a ship from some Mexican port.

Dispatches from Fukuoka, Japan, quoted Taeko Suzuki, 17, as denying that Lauhon ever married her. He said he had written her that he planned to marry an American girl.

Lauhon got as far as Nogales, Mexico, where he was picked up Friday night trying to sell Mrs. McPherson's automobile.

He told officers he shot the three because he feared they might turn him over to the Air Force for being A.W.O.L.

The Altus (Ark.) airman was flown here Saturday, Mexico turned him over to Texas authorities without extradition proceedings on grounds he was an undesirable alien.

Lauhon dictated a statement to Assistant District Attorney Archie Alexander Jr. Here is Lauhon's story:

A hitchhiker, he was picked up by Mrs. McPherson at Beaumont, Tex. She was returning from Sulphur, La., where her husband John, and son Jack, 22, are oil field workers.

He tried to hold her up with a pistol but she told him she had no money. They drove to her home in Dickinson where she said he could spend the night.

During the night Lauhon arose and took his pistol into the grandmother's and boy's bedroom. Mrs. Norman awoke and he shot her. This awakened the boy and Lauhon shot him.

He then went into Mrs. McPherson's bedroom. The airman said he planned to knock her unconscious and take her with him on his trip so she could write checks. But she awoke before he struck her and he shot her.

He found $20 in Mrs. McPherson's purse and $3 in Mrs. Norman's. He took the money and two rings, stepped into the car and headed for El Paso.

At El Paso, Lauhon said he shot a filling station attendant (identified as Edward Higbee, 22) in a $100 robbery. Higbee was beaten and shot in the head. His condition was described as "only fair."

A waitress identified Lauhon as the man with Mrs. McPherson the night she was killed. Two of Mrs. McPherson's rings and a .22-caliber pistol—caliber of the weapon with which the three were killed—were found on Lauhon on his arrest.

COUNTY POLICE REPORT SMOOTH OPERATION OVER FIRST WEEKEND

Officers Get 50 Calls on Fireworks and Two on Liquor Sales — DuBois Names Two More Lieutenants.

The new St. Louis County Police Department's first weekend was extra long, including yesterday's July 4 holiday, but Superintendent Albert E. DuBois reported that operations were smooth, with a minimum amount of activity.

Sunday two persons were charged with sale of liquor in 32 beer taverns and yesterday 50 complaints of illegal fireworks displays or discharges were handled. Most of the violations turned out to be small boys shooting firecrackers.

DuBois announced temporary appointment of two more lieutenants, making four since the new department began operation at 12:01 a.m. last Friday, taking over police functions of the sheriff and constables under the county charter amendment approved by voters last November.

The new lieutenants are Harry R. Haverford Jr., former Richmond Heights policeman, who has served as assistant to DuBois since June 15, and William Soell, previously an acting sergeant. Appointments will be subject to results of examinations to be taken by appointees in about 60 days, DuBois said.

Six More Sergeants.

Six additional sergeants, all former deputy sheriffs, also were named by DuBois. They were Harry Dorfman, John M. Bergauer, Sylvester Gansmann, Walter B. Herr, William W. Sharp and Lynn S. White. One more sergeant remains to be named.

Also to be designated is a deputy superintendent, who will be chosen from the basis of competitive tests, DuBois said.

Lt. Haverford will continue his duties as supplies and equipment officer. In addition, he will serve on relief for the other three lieutenants. Soell, Bergauer and A. H. Piotraschke, also will be in charge of the firearms training program which starts tomorrow at Ladue City Hall.

DuBois said that by the end of this week he hoped all members of the department would be in their new gray summer uniforms. Badges had not yet been received and most of the officers are still using the badges they wore as deputy sheriffs. They also wore the new county police shoulder patch.

Liquor Arrests.

The liquor arrests were by Officers John Mouton and King Chamblin, formerly of the sheriff's gambling and liquor squad.

Those arrested were Miss Lorne Walcott, waitress at Johnnie's Out-of-Town Tavern and Restaurant, 9833 Halls Ferry road, and Ernie H. Kassebaum, operator of a cafe and tavern on U.S. Highway 61 near the Meramec river.

Mouton and Chamblin, who wore plain clothes, reported they were served mixed drinks in both establishments.

G. V. GRUENEWALD IS FINED $5000 FOR TAX EVASION

Former St. Clair County Sheriff Put on Probation — Pleaded No Contest.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 5—George V. Gruenewald, former sheriff of St. Clair county, was fined $5000 for income tax evasion today by United States District Judge Charles G. Brigg.

The court also placed Gruenewald on probation for three years, the probation to be contingent on payment of the fine within 60 days, together with all federal taxes, interest and penalties due the Government.

Gruenewald, who lives at Belleville, pleaded no contest June 10 to an indictment charging him with evading payment of $9426 in income taxes for 1948, 1949 and 1950. The United States Attorney's office objected to acceptance of this type of plea at the time.

The former sheriff, who served from 1942 to 1946, pleaded ill health in asking for probation. He is 67 years old. A Republican, he served as deputy sheriff from 1946 to 1950 and has also been a druggist and a soft-drink salesman.

The indictment charged him with "willfully and knowingly attempting to evade and defeat" the income tax laws, alleging that he and his wife had an income of $50,285 during the three years. He paid taxes of $1166, it was charged, and should have paid $10,592.

Indictments charging malfeasance in office and palpable omission of duty were returned against Gruenewald by two "runaways" St. Clair county grand juries in 1946 and 1947. The true bills, which charged Gruenewald with failure to enforce gambling laws, were dismissed later.

CHARGES FELLOW PRISONERS FORCED HIM TO EAT SOAP

Four prisoners held at Police Headquarters were scheduled to appear in police court today on assault and peace disturbance charges after Frank Buster Kinderman, another prisoner, complained they beat him and forced him to eat soap.

Kinderman, 31 year old, a laborer living in the 4400 block of North Broadway, was being held by police suspected of burglary and larceny. He said the attack occurred shortly after the four other prisoners, all younger men, were placed in his cell. No reason was given for the assault.

The men accused by Kinderman identified themselves as Donald Lee Murry, 17, living in the 2300 block of North Eleventh street; Charles E. Carroll, 22, 1400 block of North Eighth street; Billy W. Holloway, 20, 1600 block of Hogan street, and Charles H. Rodebaugh, 20, 1200 block of Wright street. Only Murry admitted mistreating Kinderman, police said. Kinderman had bruises of the shoulder, back and left hand.

University City Boy, 5, Loses Life—Fishing
Pond Scene of Tragedy
Near Wentzville.

Eight persons from this area drowned in separate accidents near St. Louis during the Fourth of July holiday weekend.

They were:
Dan William Van Uum, 5 years old, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard W. Van Uum, 7200 Stanford avenue, University City.

T. L. Osborne, 65, Wentzville, Charles W. Hatch, 39, 1018 Pennsylvania avenue, East St. Louis.

Robert Krechel, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Krechel, 1400 North Ninth street, Edgar Meier, 27, 4501 Holly place.

Junior Fedder, 28, Highland, Ill. Mrs. Clara Heim, 32, Highland, Miss Marilyn Weiss, 19, Highland.

The Van Uum boy, youngest of five children, drowned Sunday when he fell from a dock at a lake near Mount Vernon, Ill., where his family was visiting friends, Mr. and Mrs. Harold W. Schill.

The boy was left by himself for a few minutes and had disappeared from the dock when members of the family, who had been fishing, returned. His body was recovered from the lake.

Drowning Near Wentzville.

Osborne, a carpenter, drowned yesterday in a fishing pond on his own property near Wentzville in St. Charles county when he and two companions were cleaning out moss with an improvised net.

The friends told authorities that they had reached deep water when they decided to turn back. However, Osborne lost his grasp of the net and sank beneath the surface, they said.

Meier drowned in the Mississippi river Sunday near Perdue, Mo., about 12 miles northwest of St. Charles. A woman companion, Miss Ann Brand, 2008 South Compton avenue, was helped to safety by Ray Muskopf, owner of a clubhouse nearby.

Muskopf said he was unable to reach Meier, who had gone swimming with Miss Brand off Two Branch Island in the river. The body was recovered several hours later, 150 feet downstream from the site of the accident.

Found Unconscious.

Hatch, an attorney, drowned Sunday in Willow Wood Lake near State Route 94 in St. Charles county, where he and his wife and another pair had gone for an all-day outing.

Hatch, who was a good swimmer, had been floating in the water some distance from his companions. One of the others swam over to him and discovered he was unconscious. Efforts to revive him on shore were unsuccessful. The drownings of Hatch, Meier and Osborne were the first of the year in St. Charles county.

Krechel was swimming in the Gasconade river near Gasconade Sunday with three other members of a Boy Scout troop on a three-day camping trip, accompanied by a scoutmaster, John A. Brown, 5020 Brannon street.

The boy appeared to collapse in the water, and when one of his companions swam to help him, he kicked himself free and sank beneath the surface, authorities were told. The body was recovered almost an hour later.

Fedder, Mrs. Heim and Miss Weiss drowned Saturday in Sportsmen's Lake, one mile northwest of Highland, which is in Madison county, 30 miles east of St. Louis.

State highway police said the accident occurred when their boat crossed a dam. Two of the occupants tried to change places. Two other members of the boating party, Miss Doris Gilman, 23, Highland, and Bill Edwards, 19, Donnellson, Ill., reached shore. They were treated at a Highland hospital and released.

BOARD APPROVES VACATING PART OF PERSHING AVE.

Orders Ordinance Drafted Making 2-block Section a Private Place.

The Board of Public Service today approved the request of residents of a two-block portion of Pershing avenue between Taylor and North Kingshighway boulevard that the area be vacated by the city and become a private place.

The board, which acted unanimously, instructed one of its members, Frank Kriz, Director of Streets and Sewers, to draw up an appropriate ordinance for introduction into the Board of Aldermen.

Last week at a public hearing, residents of the area spoke in favor of the proposed change, telling board members that it is designed to maintain property values and prevent blight and decay.

They also said they wanted to protect children living there from heavy through traffic. Gates would be placed at Taylor and Kingshighway and at Euclid and Pershing, under the plans of the residents, if city approval of the proposal is completed.

It was pointed out at the hearing that when the city vacates an area for a private place, property assessment is made to the center line of the street instead of just to the curb, as on public streets. This would raise the city property tax on the residents.

The board also approved contracts totaling $82,180 for construction of a steam turbine power generating unit for City Hospital.

The main contract was awarded to Murray Iron Works, Burlington, Ia., on a low bid of $65,430. The contract for the condenser section was awarded to the Worthington Corp., Harrison, N. J., which bid $16,750.

The board awarded contracts totaling $50,000 for plans and specifications for the proposed ice and roller skating rink in Forest Park. Contracts were awarded to Frederick Dunn, for architectural plans, $23,000; Ferris & Hamig, for mechanical and electrical plans, $18,000, and William C. E. Becker, for structural engineering plans, $9,000.

TRUSTEES SUE, SAY MAN BUILT FENCE AGAINST RULES

A resident of Fair Oaks Estates in Ladue allegedly waited until trustees of the subdivision were out of town and then built a large fence on his property, contrary to building restrictions there, the trustees charged today in a suit filed in circuit court at Clayton.

Miss Hogan, who has been suing for a year, was out on the forehead. Downes received a cut on the nose. Both were treated at St. Louis County Hospital and released. They are planning to return to Iowa today by some form of ground transportation, after making arrangements for retrieving the plane from the river. Their trip to St. Louis was for a holiday visit with Downes' parents.

The trustees, Joseph E. Vollmar Jr., Stanley J. Birge and Leonard R. Woods, said in their petition that Dr. Francis C. King laid plans "secretively and clandestinely" to have the fence built on the south side of his yard at 49 Fair Oaks.

The fence, six and one-half feet high and 130 feet long, was put up in about a day and presents an unsightly surface to the next-door neighbor, the trustees said. They asked for a court order to have it torn down, saying that Dr. King knew when he bought his property last year that fence-building projects had to have the trustees' approval.

ALLIES COMPLETE WORK ON GERMAN UNIFICATION PLAN

Proposal to Be Presented to Russians at Big Four Summit Conference in Geneva.

BONN, July 5 (AP)—Allied authorities completed work yesterday on a German reunification plan to be presented to the Russians at the Big Four summit conference in Geneva.

Diplomatic officials said American, British and French experts agreed on the final text of the plan at the end of a five-hour conference.

It will be presented to West German officials today. If the Germans approve, the plan then will be sent to the American, British and French governments for final approval.

Allied and German officials have been working on the plan for the last two weeks. It is based on British Prime Minister Eden's plan for reunification through internationally supervised all-German elections.

1954 Eden Plan.

The Eden plan first was presented at the Big Four foreign ministers conference in Berlin in 1954. The Russians rejected it.

A West German government spokesman told a press conference yesterday that "important changes in the Eden plan are not to be expected" from the talks here.

Prof. Wilhelm Grewe, director of the political department of the Foreign Office, has represented West Germany in the Bonn discussions. The chief Allied delegates were Raymond Lisle of the United States, Maurice Bathurst of Britain and Francois Leduc of France, all diplomats assigned here.

The German spokesman denied reports that the Western powers had agreed to offer the Soviet Union a European security agreement in return for German reunification.

"This is just one of many possibilities," he said. Chancellor Adenauer and Britain's Lord Ismay yesterday discussed West Germany's plan to build up armed forces of 500,000 men in the Atlantic alliance.

Ismay, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, talked with Adenauer and his chief assistants for three hours at the federal chancellery.

The government said they reviewed all aspects of West Germany's relations to NATO and its rearmament plans.

Luncheon for Ismay.

At a luncheon honoring Ismay, Adenauer said the Western powers would refuse at the forthcoming summit conference even to consider scrapping the North Atlantic alliance.

"All Western statesmen will give the North Atlantic Treaty Organization the necessary strong backing," he said.

The Chancellor predicted the talks at Geneva "probably will be difficult," and said that they "will be of utmost importance for the fate of all nations, especially for the relations between the Western countries and the Soviet Union."

It was on March 9, 1862, that the Monitor and the Confederate Virginia, more popularly known by its earlier name of Merrimac, fought to a draw in Hampton Roads off Norfolk.

The Monitor, a steamship, was built by the Confederates after they had evacuated Norfolk.

McMullen, a student of Civil War history, said his research indicates the Monitor sank about 25 miles southwest of the Hatteras lights at latitude 34 degrees 55 minutes and longitude 75 degrees 32 minutes. Its resting place is believed to be 100 or more deep, on a sandy bottom.

McMullen made his offer of a $1000 reward with the stipulation that the finder agrees to turn the vessel over to the society. The society plans to establish the Monitor, once it gets it, as a national shrine.

GIRL IS SOUGHT AFTER YOUTH'S DEATH IN PLUNGE

Kenneth W. Milano's Body Found at Base of Embankment Under MacArthur Bridge.

Police today were searching for a blond girl who was seen with Kenneth W. Milano several hours before he was found dead of a broken neck at the base of a high embankment beneath MacArthur bridge Saturday morning.

Milano, 18 years old, was with the girl at 1:30 a.m. at Jefferson and Lafayette avenues, witnesses told police. The youth arrived home at 4 a.m., his mother, Mrs. Marcella Roloff, 2347A Albion place said, but he did not come in the house.

Mrs. Roloff said she heard a woman call, "Come with us Ken," and Milano left again, apparently in an automobile in which the woman was riding. The body was found about three hours later.

The scene of Milano's death was visited Sunday by Coroner Patrick E. Taylor and his physician, Dr. John J. Conno, who said it would have been impossible for Milano to have fallen from MacArthur bridge. He could have lost his footing and rolled down the embankment, however.

Police have questioned members of a wedding party Milano attended Friday night. A fight was reported at the party. Milano recently had worked in the stockroom of a millinery firm.

WATER TRAIL LEADS TO AUTO THAT HIT THREE OTHERS

A mile-long trail of water led police to a driver who sideswiped three parked automobiles and left the scene of the accident early Sunday.

Officers found the three damaged machines in the 4200 block of Lee avenue and the trail of water leading away. The trail ended in the 4800 block of Birch boulevard where another damaged auto, with a leaky radiator, was found.

John J. Tucker, a glazier living at 4860 Birch boulevard, admitted the auto was his and told police he had become excited after the accident and driven home. He was booked for reckless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

GAINS CAN COME

reason for holding the Geneva conference was the lack of unanimity among the great powers. If such unanimity existed, there would be no need for the conference, he pointed out.

"We are delighted to go to Geneva," Khrushchev said, "but if you are not prepared to talk seriously we can wait. I hold on."

Noting that some people are saying that one reason behind Russia's desire for agreement with the West is a bad harvest, the Communist chief said:

"I want to tell them that we have never had a more solid situation than now. Our agriculture is in full swing; I don't care whether you like it or not. Our industry is overfulfilling its plans. . . . Our construction is all right although I, myself, made a very critical speech at the conference of builders."

"The solidarity of our party has never been such as it is now," he added, "and as for the unity of the people with the party—you send people around the country: You can judge for yourself."

Comment on Eisenhower. Khrushchev said he liked a statement by Mr. Eisenhower at the President's press conference last Wednesday—but "not all of it."

"I must tell the truth: There were right things and wrong things," he said. "I think that in any case what he said was a fresh stream of ozone."

Mr. Eisenhower told reporters last week he was more optimistic than two months ago that the Geneva talks might accomplish something useful.

The President said it was obvious that a change had taken place of late in the Soviet attitude toward world problems but that no one really knew who was the dominating influence in the Soviet government.

Walmesley said it was not surprising that Khrushchev should disagree with some of Mr. Eisenhower's remarks.

"That is why we are going to Geneva," he said. "If we go with our own ideas of what can be achieved, that is not the monopoly of the United States alone. Every country can bring its own ideas."

"I'm glad we are going to Geneva," the charge d'affaires added. "The reason for our going is our disagreements."

Walmesley said he thought that Khrushchev had been misinformed about United States press speculation concerning the conference, which the Communist chief had described as "irresponsible."

"I think the speculation has been not so much about the wisdom of the Soviet Union's steps," he said, "but the timing. Perhaps these steps might have been taken earlier."

As to German 'Menace.' In a discussion with French Ambassador Louis Joxe, Khrushchev talked about Germany and declared, "I think France needs a reduction of tension more than us. I don't want to offend you, but I think we are stronger than you. Germany menaces us less than you."

Later in the party, Khrushchev left the subject of the Geneva conference to tell Maj. William Fife of Johnson City, Tenn., that in case of a war he hoped the United States and Russia would be on the same side.

"I want to talk to a military man," he told Fife, who is assistant United States air attaché. "I know we do not want war and I know that you do not. If there must be a war, let's be on the same side."

At one point in the party, Bulganin proposed a toast to the success of the talks at which he, President Eisenhower, British Prime Minister Eden and French Premier Faure will be the principal figures.

Bulganin said he would arrive in Geneva about July 17, the date he said he understood Mr. Eisenhower was planning to get there. He declined to discuss the makeup of his delegation. The only member so far known is Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

ever, Koenig merely shifted operations to his apartment at 601 North Fortieth street, East St. Louis.

Shortly before the shots were fired at Havey and Mueller, East St. Louis police raided the Wortman-controlled racing-results service in quarters above the Terrace Lounge, 127 Collinsville avenue. They also raided quarters in Koenig's apartment building which were being used by Mueller and Havey. They found two telephones.

Payments Never Made. Noe also corroborated information previously reported by the Post-Dispatch that Koenig had been promised payments of $150 to $200 a week by the men who took over his business. The payments were never made and this apparently caused Koenig to set up his competitive business.

Another man formerly associated with Koenig in a handbook operation told the Post-Dispatch today he believed the murder of Koenig, the shots fired at Havey and Mueller, and other recent disturbances in the East Side underworld were the result of a tightening of the racketeers' economy.

"The boys haven't been permitted to run wide open for some time," he said. "Business has fallen off. There hasn't been enough money for everybody so the big operators have been eating the little operators."

He said as long as enough money was coming in the bigger men in the underworld hierarchy had permitted the smaller fry to make a living from the less profitable rackets. But when the economic squeeze came the big operators took over everything.

Wortman surrendered to East Side authorities Saturday and denied under extensive questioning that he had any knowledge of the Koenig murder. He offered an alibi that he was with his children at a Belleville drive-in theater the night Koenig disappeared.

The gangster, an ex-convict who lives in a pretentious home at 8 Summit drive, near Collinsville, interrupted a vacation on Mackinac Island, Mich., to surrender for questioning.

complete disorder." Civil servants feared to make any decisions until the crisis has been solved. Interior Minister Ernoe Geroc was said to be handling the premier's duties under the guidance of Rakosi.

A western visitor who arrived in Vienna today from Budapest said:

"Police appeared by the hundreds in Budapest about two weeks ago and started raiding bars, cafes, coffee houses, homes—any place where people might gather. Automobiles and pedestrians are stopped and you are questioned wherever you go."

"Many uniformed police just stand along the streets with their guns half out of their holsters, as if they had been stationed there for the sole purpose of intimidating people."

"We heard that many Hungarians had disappeared," the source said. "But I have no figures. There is much talk of new mass trials."

CALL ON DIEM TO

Seek Bao Dai Ouster, Establishment of Provisional Republic.

SAIGON, South Viet Nam, July 5 (AP)—The National Revolutionary Committee of South Viet Nam today told Premier Ngo Dinh Diem to quit stalling and carry out the program it proposed to him two months ago.

It includes deposing Chief of State Bao Dai, resignation of Diem's cabinet because it was appointed by Bao Dai and establishment of a provisional republic.

There was no immediate reaction from the Premier's office. The revolutionary committee is an unofficial body of ardent nationalists—originally Diem's enthusiastic backers—who banded together to push the ouster of Bao Dai when he, remaining in France, sought to undercut Diem's authority.

Appeal to People. At a press conference today the committee's vice chairman, Ho Han Son, and its secretary general, Nui Lang, made public a committee letter to Diem and said if the Premier fails to give an immediate and clear reply the committee will appeal directly to the people of South Viet Nam.

Ho Han Son added ominously that the people might decide to use force in carrying out "the principles of revolution."

The two committee officers described Diem's government—with the exception of the Premier, a few officials and a few general Nui Lang, made public a committee letter to Diem and said if the Premier fails to give an immediate and clear reply the committee will appeal directly to the people of South Viet Nam.

POLICE HOLD UP QUESTIONING IN PAY-OFF INQUIRY

Police have complied with a request by Circuit Attorney Edward L. Dowd that questioning of officers suspected of receiving pay-offs from Mrs. June Alma Lytz, murdered brothel operator, be delayed until the officers have been quizzed by the grand jury, Police Board President I. A. Long said today.

However, the police inquiry in the case will go ahead and Maj. James F. Thompson, in charge of the investigation, will report to the board at its meeting today, Long said.

Dowd made the request in a letter sent before he left for Florida last Wednesday because of a sinus infection.

His first assistant, Raymond A. Bruntrager, explained the reason for the request was that interrogation by a grand jury ordinarily is much more effective than any other kind.

The grand jury was scheduled to resume its investigation of the case tomorrow.

BRITISH DOCK STRIKE ENDS, INTER-UNION ROW UNDECIDED

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Britain's dock strikers went back to work yesterday, bitter and empty-handed. The 18,000 stevedores tackled mountains of export goods stacked at six of Britain's major ports, where more than 170 freighters waited to be loaded or unloaded.

Shipments of two of Britain's best dollar earning industries—cars and cycles—were reported halved by the stoppage.

Still undecided was the jurisdictional fight that led to the strike by the National Amalgamated Stevedores and Dockers Union. It demanded equal bargaining rights on northern waterfronts with the huge Transport and General Workers Union, which opposed the walk-out. The parent Trades Union Congress, acting as arbiter, ruled that the N.A.S.D.U. must give up 10,000 members claimed by the T.G.W.U., but it did not say where they belonged.

your Dr. Jekyll with your Mr. Hyde."

While the M.A.C. was meeting, the Communist correspondents said the U.N. press group could attend Lee's press conference, if they in turn could attend Parks's. The Allied correspondents replied they could not commit Parks.

Reds' Suggestions. A little later the Reds suggested it might be all right if they just listened at Parks's conference, but asked no questions. Again the U.N. group said they could not speak for the American general.

Still later, the Communists waived their attendance at Parks's conference as a requirement, and said the U.N. group was free to attend Lee's conference. They added that Lee would delay his conference if there was a conflict in time after the M.A.C. meeting.

The M.A.C. meeting by custom is closed to the press.

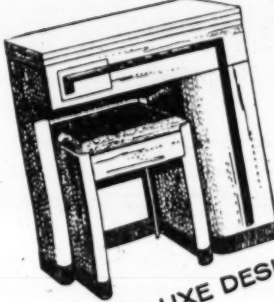

U.N. reporters have talked at Panmunjom with numerous Red officers. But an invitation to a Communist press conference there is a rarity.

After Parks's blast at the Reds, the newspaper men were even more interested in talking with Lee.

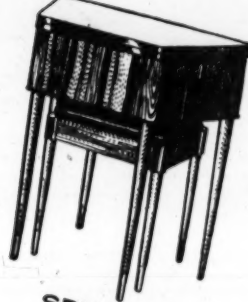

Lee waited in the joint security area for nearly an hour and a half while the newspaper men argued with Parks.

Parks telephoned U.N.C. headquarters in Tokyo, then left the area. In Tokyo, the Far East Command chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Elmer J. Rogers, supported Parks in his decision.

The correspondents debated among themselves whether to defy Parks's order, which he could have enforced only by use of military police. They decided against it so as not to make a scene in front of the waiting Communists.

NEHRU AND TITO DISCUSS ASIA, REICH ON CRUISE

BELGRADE, July 5 (AP)—Indian Prime Minister Nehru and President-Marshall Josip (Tito) Broz had talks on world affairs yesterday aboard Tito's yacht in a cruise along the Adriatic coast.

Nehru, on a seven-day state visit to Yugoslavia, began the day with a sightseeing tour of the ancient walled city of Dubrovnik on the Adriatic. Then he embarked with Tito aboard the white presidential yacht "Jadranka."

Reports reaching Belgrade said the two leaders' discussions ranged over disarmament, the Far East and the German problem.

JUDGE IN KETCH SAYS HE WILL TRY OCEAN TRIP AGAIN

CAMDEN, Me., July 5 (UP)—Judge Walton Clark of Darien, Conn., celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday yesterday with a vow—to "try again sometime" to sail alone across the Atlantic.

The spy, sea-loving judge brought his small boat back to port Sunday after nine days at sea.

He set out for Plymouth, England, on June 24 in his 20-foot ketch with 150 square feet of sail, a small radio, duplicate navigation instruments and supplies for 30 days.

"I'm sorry I didn't have time to go all the way," he said upon his return here. "I had pressing affairs at home and realized I never would make Plymouth" in the time he had allowed.

He said the boat "bucked like a broncho" but weathered wind and wave fine.

Judge Clark left Camden after writing a letter to his wife saying he was making the trip and asking her to keep it a secret until he was well at sea. He said he made about 50 miles a day for three days.

MISSOURI'S CHIEF MEDIATOR HOPES TO END BUS DISPUTE

Daniel C. Rogers, chairman of the State Mediation Board, scheduled conferences here today with representatives of the St. Louis Public Service Co. and the bus and streetcar operators union in the hope of settling the stubborn wage dispute between the company and its 2800 operating and maintenance employees.

Rogers, who conferred with both groups last week, returned here today from his home in Fayette because of indications a settlement might be reached, he said. Following a meeting with company officers, he is to meet with the executive board of Local 788, Amalgamated Association of Electric Street Railway and Motor Coach Operators.

Any wage proposal worked out through the conference is subject to action by the union members. The last proposal, calling for an increase of 8 cents an hour in two installments, was rejected by union members June 15.

ALCOHOLICS ANONYMOUS REDEDICATES OBJECTIVE

Members of Alcoholics Anonymous today were rededicated to helping the alcoholic who still suffers, following close to A.A.'s twentieth anniversary convention at Kiel Auditorium Sunday.

About 5000 delegates gave a standing ovation to the surviving co-founder, identified as Bill W., a former New York broker, after he told them: "We should never pridefully assume that A.A. is a cure-all, even for alcoholism. We should always be friendly and open-minded toward every new development in the medical and psychiatric arts that promises to help sick alcoholics."

The delegates approved a permanent charter under which control of A.A. will be transferred from a small group of "elders" to a general service board, a majority of whose members are non-alcoholics. The board has functioned under a temporary charter for five years.

TRUMAN SPONSOR OF DINNER FOR MISS FRIEDA HENNOCK

WASHINGTON, July 5 (UP)—Former President Harry S. Truman heads a list of sponsors for a testimonial dinner planned for Miss Frieda B. Hennock, former member of the Federal Communications Commission. The dinner is scheduled for July 20.

Miss Hennock, only woman to serve on the FCC, completed a seven-year term as commissioner June 30. She is a former New York lawyer and a Democrat.

The dinner committee said other sponsors include Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York, Gov. Edwin C. Johnson of Colorado, Senator Alben W. Barkley of Kentucky, Senator Herbert H. Lehman of New York, and all FCC commissioners.

A record total of 134,352 persons attended the six performances of the tenth annual Moollah Temple Shrine Circus and Fireworks Display at Public Schools Stadium, Harold A. Schulenburg, general chairman of the Shrine circus committee, announced today.

Attendance at the final show last night was 18,222 and the record for a single night was 26,174 Sunday, Schulenburg said.

Most of the proceeds will go to the Shriners Hospital for Crippled Children and the rest to 24 other child welfare agencies.

FOUR HUK LEADERS KILLED

MANTILA, July 5 (AP)—Four Huk regional commanders were killed in an army ambush north of Manila today, the Philippine news service reported.

The army said seven civilians and six soldiers were under arrest on suspicion of stealing military arms and ammunition for the Huk.

CONGRESS BEGINS MOP-UP—SOME BILLS IN TROUBLE

Many of President's Measures Sure to Pass, But School, Refugee Items May Die.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (UP)—Congress started its stretch drive toward adjournment today with parts of President Eisenhower's domestic program still in serious trouble.

However, many of the items which led the President to complain about Democratic inaction last week are sure to pass in some form. Some will bear more of the imprint of the Democratic majority in Congress than of the Administration.

As Congress returned from its Independence day holiday, it was generally expected that no more than four weeks would be needed for the mop-up and that adjournment would come by July 30 or very soon thereafter.

The serious illness of Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was not expected to delay adjournment. The Democratic whip Earle C. Clements of Kentucky is filling in for Johnson.

Some Written Off. Some Administration proposals already have been written off. Those still alive include three in serious trouble—public housing, federal aid for school construction, and liberalization of the refugee law. A solution of the impasse which has stalled the housing bill in the House is expected. School and refugee legislation appear likely to die.

House Speaker Rayburn (Dem.), Texas, said today, however, it is up to the Republicans whether Congress will pass a housing bill.

The omnibus housing bill was stalled after the House Rules Committee last week voted 6-6 against sending the measure to the floor. Rayburn said the only feasible way of getting the bill to the House floor would be for the rules group to reverse itself. Representative Martin of Massachusetts, House Republican leader, asserted "we'll get a housing bill before we're through."

Status of Ills. President Eisenhower urged his congressional lieutenants today to press vigorously for speedy adoption of his military reserve program and his atom-powered peace ship.

He made the plea at a White House luncheon with Senate Republican Leader William F. Knowland of California and Martin.

Knowland said the President particularly stressed the need for action on his military reserve plan.

The Senate leader said the President also stressed the need for approval of administration-backed housing, highway, and school construction bills.

Mr. Eisenhower included all three of those measures in his list last week of legislation on which Congress had taken no final action. Here is the status of some of the others:

Military Reserve Training—The House skirted the segregation issue which previously stalled this bill and passed it Friday. The Senate Armed Services Committee starts hearings Thursday. Senate passage is assured.

Highways—The Senate junked the Administration plan for a bond-issuing highway corporation and passed a Democratic substitute. House Republicans scheduled a caucus today to try to come up with a compromise that can be substituted for the Democratic measure. Eventual enactment of a bill without the Administration bond plan is fairly certain.

Foreign Aid—Both House and Senate have passed bills closely in line with Administration requests. Differences between the two probably will be worked out this week. Sterner efforts at cutting the requests are expected on the follow-up appropriation bill.

Minimum Wage—The Senate passed a bill to increase the 75-cent minimum wage to $1, compared with the Administration proposal of 90 cents. The House is expected to approve 90 cents or $1 this month.

Customs Simplification—The House has passed a bill and the Senate expects to follow suit.

Water Resources—The Senate approved the Upper Colorado project. Its House sponsors believe it will pass that chamber, too.

Except for foreign aid and the public works bill on the Senate floor this week, Congress is just about finished with the annual appropriations bills.

Hennings Standing Pat On Election Law Revision.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Senator Hennings (Dem.), Missouri, said today he is standing pat on a proposed revision of the federal election laws despite strong—and possibly fatal—Republican and Democratic opposition.

A bill by Hennings to increase the expenditures limits on presidential, Senate and House campaigns is on the Senate calendar with approval of a majority of the Rules Committee. It also would require more detailed reporting of campaign spending than at present.

Democratic leaders have delayed action on the measure in a reported search for a compromise which would make it more palatable to Southern Democrats who oppose what they term federal interference in primary elections.

Republicans have demanded the bill be amended to prevent labor organizations from contributing to campaign funds.

COUNTY LIBRARY RECEIVES JOHN COTTON DANA AWARD

The John Cotton Dana publicity award, jointly sponsored by the "Wilson Library Bulletin," of New York and the American Library Association Public Relations Committee, has been received by the St. Louis County Library. It was announced today.

The award, graded on a competitive basis, was given to the library for its expansion campaign which culminated April 5 when voters granted a tax increase for erection of four regional libraries in the county.

Announcement of the award was made at the annual conference of the American Library Association at Philadelphia. A total of 85 libraries from 25 states and 28 foreign regions competed for the award.

COLUMBUS, O., July 5 (AP)—Lightning killed a young mother and her three children who were on a holiday picnic north of here Sunday.

Quido Rossetti, his wife Eda, and the children had taken refuge beneath a quilt under a tree when a thunderstorm struck. Rossetti was the only survivor.

TWO FROM SHAW'S GARDEN COLLECTING FERNS IN MEXICO

Alice F. Tryon, research associate at the Missouri Botanical Garden, is collecting desert ferns in Mexico, as part of work under a two-year National Academy of Science grant. It was announced yesterday.

Dead with Mrs. Rossetti were daughters Julia, 15 months, and Debbie, 4, and son John, 6.

Living ferns growing in the mountainous regions of Central Mexico will be brought back here for experimental study. She is accompanied by her husband, Rolla M. Tryon Jr., assistant curator of the herbarium at Missouri Botanical Garden. They live at 641 Fieldston terrace, Webster Groves.

WHITE HOUSE CHAUFFEUR RETIRES AFTER 37 YEARS

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—William H. Miller, a White House chauffeur who has driven every President since Woodrow Wilson, has retired after 37 years service. He got a letter of appreciation from President Eisenhower and a watch and wallet from his fellow workers on his retirement. Miller's failing hearing has confined his work to the garage during the last year.

POLICE RECOVER SAFE AND $5179 AFTER BURGLARY

Three Men Arrested—Said to Admit Taking Rent Money From Housing Project.

Police recovered a safe containing $5179 today seven hours after it was carried away from the office of the Wendell Pruitt Homes, 2433 O'Fallon street. Three men, who admitted the theft are being held.

Held in custody were Charles H. Crews, a laborer of the 2300 block of Biddle street; William Hughes, a waiter, of the 2000 block of Cole street; and Wilfred W. Nailor, a laborer of the 2200 block of Biddle street.

The men, all Negroes, were arrested at Twelfth boulevard and Franklin avenue about an hour after the theft by Detectives John Mohan and Edward Longnette. The men and the automobile in which they were sitting answered descriptions broadcast at the time of the burglary.

Investigation revealed marks of gray paint from the 600-pound safe in the trunk of the machine. A hammer streaked with gray paint marks and part of the combination of the safe also were found in the trunk.

Mohan said the burglars were unable to open the safe with crude tools and apparently were attempting to get better ones. The safe was recovered with the money in it at 415 South Jefferson avenue.

Obie DeBaw, maintenance superintendent, called police at 2:40 a.m. when he discovered doors to the office and cashier's office inside had been forced open and the safe missing.

Neal Nathanson, proprietor of a drug store at 631 East Big Bend boulevard, Webster Groves, was robbed of more than $1000 last night by an armed man who also took his wallet and automobile.

Nathanson had just locked the store for the night when a Negro displaying an automatic forced him to re-enter the store and open a safe. About $1050 was taken from the safe and an unknown amount from Nathanson's wallet, he said.

Victim Is Beaten.

Four other robberies were reported to police over the holiday weekend, including one in which the victim was beaten. He is George Glashen, a railroad brakeman of Fidon, Mo., who was knocked to the ground at Broadway and Carey avenue early Sunday by two Negroes who took his wallet containing $150. He was treated for an injured right eye at Christian Hospital.

Carl Kueffer of Oklahoma City was robbed of $450 early yesterday at Norwood and Lexington avenues by four Negroes who flourished knives and revolvers. He told police they stopped him on the pretext of asking for a match.

Charles Kimble, operator of a filling station at 231 South Vandeventer avenue, was robbed of $543 late Saturday by a Negro armed with a revolver. The robber took $84 from Kimble's wallet, he told police, and the remainder from a safe in the rear of the filling station.

Two Admit Robbery.

Police arrested two Negroes early Sunday who have admitted taking $139 from Mrs. Thomas Carlin, who operates a tavern with her husband at 6435 Manchester avenue.

After closing the tavern, Mr. and Mrs. Carlin had driven to the home of her brother in the 4100 block of Laclede avenue. Carlin went inside while Mrs. Carlin remained in the automobile and fell asleep. When she awoke at 3:30 a.m., she discovered a cigar box containing the cash was missing.

Police meanwhile became suspicious of the two men as they entered a filling station at Vandeventer avenue and Gratiot street. Under questioning the pair admitted the robbery after a total of $113 and identifying papers were found in their possession. They are John Henry Starks, who gave an address in the 3100 block of Evans avenue, and Sam R. Talton, 2700 block of Eugenia street.

Miss Marjorie Douglas, curator at the Missouri Historical Society, reported to police that $100 was taken from the society's office Saturday while she was away for less than 10 minutes. The money was in a file box inside the unlocked office vault.

RADIATOR FIRM TO CLOSE PLANT AT JOHNSTOWN, PA.

Operations of the National U.S. Radiator Corp. will be centralized at the firm's plant at Edwardsville after Aug. 31, when a plant at Johnstown, Pa., will be closed, it was announced today.

The Johnstown plant had been in operation for about 60 years and employed 200 persons. T.B. Ficke, company president, said it was being closed because of a decreased demand for cast iron radiators, which are made there. The present company was formed recently through merger of the National Radiator Co. and the U.S. Radiator Corp.

KILLED BY SHOTGUN IN FIGHT

Henry Brandon, 2405 Coleman street, was killed last night by a shotgun blast after an argument with Oscar Lee Robinson, 2823 Bernard street, police reported. Both men are Negroes.

Robinson told police he obtained the shotgun from his home and returned to 423 South Leffingwell avenue, the scene of the argument. Brandon threatened him and was shot when he advanced on him, ignoring warnings to stay away, Robinson told police. Robinson was booked suspected of homicide. Brandon was 40 years old.

GIRL FOUND SAFE AFTER 22 HOURS IN MOUNTAIN REGION

LIBBY, Mont., July 5 (AP)—Found unharmed in a wooded hollow, little Ida Mae Curtis ran to her father's arms with a cheerful "Hi, Daddy," late yesterday after she was lost for 22 hours in a rugged mountain area south of here. Searchers found the 2-year-old girl only 300 yards from where she disappeared Sunday evening. Her father, Mortimer Curtis, had feared she might have been carried from their tent by one of several bears seen in the vicinity. Mrs. Curtis, mother of seven, had said she saw two bears near the camp where Curtis works as a logger shortly after Ida Mae vanished at dusk Sunday. The youngster was taken to a hospital, where a doctor said she was in "perfect condition." "She may have been frightened by a bear, but I doubt if it touched her," he said. "She was awake when he found her, lying on her side. She was a little frightened, but not as much as you would think."

Ida Mae was wearing only a thin shirt, shorts and shoes, but seemed undisturbed at spending a chilly night and most of the day alone in the Kootenai national forest.

Sterling Martin, Negro, 2721A Franklin avenue, was fined $15 today by Acting Police Judge Richard L. Daly after he had pleaded guilty to discharging fireworks yesterday in the 2700 block of Franklin. Fines for violation of the fireworks ordinance range from $5 to $500.

PAINT, WALLPAPER GROUPS NAMED IN FEDERAL CHARGES

The Retail Paint and Wallpaper Distributors of America, Inc., with headquarters at 34 North Brentwood boulevard, Clayton, and six other paint and wallpaper trade groups have been charged by the Federal Trade Commission with a conspiracy in restraint of interstate trade, the commission announced in Washington yesterday.

The commission charged in a complaint that the groups have conspired since March 1952 to force paint manufacturers to sell only to recognized dealers in paint, wallpaper and related products. Boycotts have been urged against manufacturers who sell to dealers not recognized by the trade groups, the complaint said. Irwin E. Douglas, executive vice president of Retail Paint and Wallpaper Distributors of America, told the Post-Dispatch he had not had an opportunity to study the complaint and, therefore, could not comment on the allegations. He said the organization has about 4000 members, both at the retailer and distributor level. The other groups named in the complaint cover New York City and nearby areas in New York and New Jersey.

Pilot Kills Poisonous Snake Crawling Toward Passengers

Stops Escaped Reptile, Loose on New York-London Plane, With a Jungle Knife.

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Airline Capt. Cameron T. Walker, who landed a plane-load of passengers without injury last year despite a jammed nose wheel, seems to be making a habit of escapes from ticklish situations. This time it involved a poisonous snake.

Walker, of Massapequa, N.Y., killed the reptile with a jungle knife yesterday as it slithered across the forward luggage hold of a plane toward the crowded passenger cabin. The incident occurred just before the New York-to-London Pan American plane landed at Shannon, Ireland.

The snake had escaped from a crate containing 20 rattlesnakes, copperheads, coral snakes and other varieties being shipped to Duesseldorf, Germany.

After the snake was killed, the plane radioed ahead to London airport to be prepared and cautious when unloading the baggage compartment. When the plane landed there, officers of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals took charge.

The passengers were unaware of the incident. Airport workers searched the plane but found no other loose snakes. The one Walker killed was about 14 inches long but no one had identified its breed. The RSPCA said the snakes would be repeated before being sent on to Germany.

Walker's previous escape from peril occurred May 6, 1954, when he was forced to circle his plane for three hours over New York's Idlewild Airport before trying an emergency landing.

'SURPRISES' AT ATOM PARLEY HELD LIKELY

Strauss Concedes Meeting May Reveal Sharp Gains in Other Nations.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (UP)—United States Atomic authorities conceded today that next month's atom-for-peace conference in Geneva may produce "some surprises" about nuclear progress in other countries.

But Chairman Lewis L. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission asserted that this country's contribution to the United Nations meeting on the peaceful atom will be "outstanding."

Strauss, other members of the commission, and Dr. George L. Weil, technical director of United States participation at Geneva, briefed reporters on the conference to be held Aug. 8-20.

By far the largest contributors of technical papers and exhibits at the 60-nation meeting will be the United States, Russia and Britain. There have been hints that Russia and perhaps some other countries will try to outdo the United States in spreading atomic revelations before the world at Geneva.

But Strauss insisted: "We don't regard this as a contest. We are not attempting to show that we are better than anybody else. This is not to be a sort of scientific Olympic games."

Because this country has "the richest and most diverse atomic energy program" and has been in the business on a big scale longer than any other country, "it naturally follows that we should make an outstanding contribution," he said.

He pointed out, however, that "we will be receiving as well as giving." He said he could "not rule out the possibility of surprises" when the papers and exhibits of other nations are presented. He expressed doubt, however, that any of them would be "revolutionary."

This country will present some material that has been secret up to now—several papers, two or three films, and a number of exhibits. They were declassified under authority granted in the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 and will be made public for the first time at Geneva.

Dr. Willard F. Libby, a fellow member on the AEC, remarked that he had seen some abstracts of Russian papers and "didn't learn anything from them." He said the abstracts showed, however, that the Russians are "doing excellent work." He commented that it looks as though "their declassification rules are similar to ours."

'CAT ON HOT TIN ROOF' WINS 1954-55 BEST PLAY AWARD

NEW YORK, July 5 (UP)—Broadway's entire theatrical cast, ranging from stage hands to producers, have chosen Tennessee Williams' "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof" as the best play of the 1954-55 season, it was announced yesterday.

The best musical in the estimation of the theater's professionals was "Pajama Game."

The two plays were chosen in the annual balloting for Donaldson Awards, presented under the sponsorship of the Billboard, a theatrical weekly magazine.

Paul Muni was voted the year's best actor for his role in "Inherit the Wind," and Kim Stanley was named the best actress for her role in "Bus Stop."

Mary Martin as "Peter Pan" was chosen the top actress in a musical and Cyril Ritchard was named the best actor in a musical for his part in the same show.

Mrs. Berenetta Jessel Dies.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., July 5 (AP)—A former Broadway dancer and hostess at New York's Stage Door Canteen, Mrs. Berenetta Jessel died yesterday. She was 49 years old. In 1927 she was crowned Miss Missouri and later worked three years as a dancer with Al Jolson.

HEADS WISCONSIN SCHOOL as president of Campion Jesuit High School, Prairie du Chien, Wis., it was announced today. He had been principal of St. Louis University High School for the past two years. FIRST PLANE TO FINISH IN POWDER PUFF RACE Flown by Two California Women—Not Necessarily the Winners.

(Picture In Everyday Magazine.)

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., July 5 (AP)—Two California women—one a youthful grandmother—were hailed today as the first finishers in the ninth cross-country Powder Puff Derby.

Mrs. Isabelle McCrae of Lemon Grove, Calif., a former Air Force flight nurse, and her copilot, Mrs. Betty McNeil of La Mesa, Calif., grandmother of six were first to complete the 2800-mile airplane race yesterday.

However, the first plane in is not necessarily the winner of the derby because of the handicap system that equalizes speeds between single and multi-engined planes of varying horsepower. Winner of the $800 first prize will be announced at a banquet Thursday.

A crowd of 2000 persons was on hand to see the first arrivals in the race from Long Beach, Calif., to Barnes-Westfield airport here.

Mrs. McCrae and Mrs. McNeil brought their plane down at 4:09 p.m. (EDT). This is the former's sixth trans-continental air race and the latter's fourth. Both listed their age as 39.

Second to finish were Gladys Muter and Doris Langher, both of Chicago. Their plane touched ground at 4:49 p.m. Mrs. Muter, pilot of her own plane, also is a grandmother.

The flight across the country was by daylight only. All planes were required to land by nightfall and take off only after daylight broke.

By nightfall last night, 12 planes had landed at Springfield, Mass. The others were scattered out as follows: four at Reading, Pa.; three at Wheeling, W. Va.; four at Dayton, O.; four at Terre Haute, Ind.; 11 at St. Louis; eight at Springfield, Mo.; and one each at Tulsa, Okla., and Wichita Falls, Tex.

Earlier yesterday, Ruth Nitzgen of Inglewood, Calif., crashed near Spur, Tex., after engine trouble, but she was not injured.

The third finishers were Jane B. Hart and Marion W. Ruth, both of Lansing, Mich. Other finishers in the order they landed yesterday were: Alice Roberts of Phoenix, Ariz., and Iris Critcham of Palos Verde Estates, Calif.; Frances B. Bera, Los Angeles, and Edna Bower, Long Beach, Calif.; De Thurmond, Long Beach, Calif.; Lauren Griffin, Merriam, Kan.; Dorothy Rungeling, Fenwick, Ont., and Felicity Bennett, Kingston, Ont.; Esther H. Gardiner, Watford, Conn., and Clarissa H. Holcomb, Wenfield, Mass.; Marcia Snip and Lois White, both of San Antonio, Tex.; Alice Hammond, Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich., and Jean Pearson, Grosse Pointe Park, Mich.; Doris Eacret, Elko, Nev., and Helen McIntosh, Sunland, Calif.

ANTI-MCCARTHY LEADER QUILTS REPUBLICAN PARTY

MADISON, Wis., July 5 (AP)—Leroy Gore, former weekly newspaper editor who last year started an unsuccessful movement to recall Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Rep.), Wisconsin, says he is quitting the Republican party and he might be a candidate against McCarthy in 1958.

Speaking at a University of Wisconsin School for Workers Saturday Gore said the Wisconsin G.O.P. convention at Ripon last month had endorsed McCarthy at a time "when McCarthyism is about to vanish permanently."

"I have no choice other than to cease being a Wisconsin Republican," Gore said. He declared he sought no political office but added "I am quite certain that I could whale the daylight out of Senator McCarthy in 1958. So could a number of other Wisconsin residents."

PARK PLANE RIDE CABLE SNAPS, HITS CROWD, 7 INJURED

DETROIT, July 5 (UPI)—Seven persons were injured Sunday night when a 50-foot cable from an airplane ride at Walled Lake Amusement park snapped and whipped through a crowd of on-lookers. Police said it was a "miracle" that no one was killed.

Most severely injured was Mrs. Beatrice Schwartz, Detroit, whose left eye was damaged seriously.

Park manager Robert Templeton said the cable, one of four supporting a plane, broke without warning. He said the operator of the ride shut it off immediately, but the momentum kept the cable slicing through bystanders.

WORKHOUSE PRISONERS SEE SHOW BY FELLOW INMATES

About 400 inmates of the City Workhouse saw a show given by fellow prisoners yesterday, the first of a weekly series, Warden Harold E. Baynes announced today.

About 30 prisoners performed in a variety of acts ranging from soft shoe dancing to saxophone solos. Baynes said the receptions was enthusiastic in spite of the sweltering heat. Performances are planned for each Saturday in the future, Baynes said.

Britain to Turn Over Storied Naval Base to South Africa

Nationalists Have Long Demanded Simons-town Facilities—They Object to Liberal Treatment of Non-White Workers.

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—Prime Minister Eden announced yesterday Britain has agreed to turn over control of Simonstown, a storied empire naval base, to South Africa. South African nationalist leaders insisted on the transfer.

Eden's government retained the right of Britain and its allies to use the big base in wartime—even if South Africa should choose neutrality.

Simonstown, 21 miles south of Capetown, would serve as a sort of halfway house for troop carriers and warships sailing between Europe and Asia or the Middle East. Eden told the House of Commons that in peacetime Britain will be allowed to share the great repair, refueling and supply facilities of the base that the Royal Navy set up when Nelson was assembling his ships to fight at Trafalgar 141 years ago. In effect the British navy will be a lodger at the base.

Expanding South African Navy. The Prime Minister said the transfer of control, which must be completed within 21 months, was agreed on to make more room for South Africa's own expanding navy.

South Africa, he added, has decided meantime to place orders in this country for $50,000,000 worth of naval craft.

"Naval co-operation between the two countries has been fully discussed," Eden said. "A new naval command structure is being set up to strengthen the defense of the sea routes around the cape (of Good Hope)." This is to be based on a maritime strategic zone approximating the present South Atlantic station which extends toward the South Pole and will contain an area under the command of a South African flag officer. In a war in which extends toward the South Pole the whole zone will be under the supreme command of a Royal Navy commander in chief. A joint maritime war planning committee is to be set up to insure satisfactory planning in peace.

The agreement between the two commonwealth countries emerged finally last week after negotiations extending over years.

The Government of South Africa's Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom had taken the view that a British base on its soil detracted from the country's full independence.

Objects to British Race Policies. South Africa also objected to the comparative liberalism with which the British authorities in Simonstown treated its thousands of non-white dockyard workers—a liberalism that contrasted with the strict racial policies pursued by the Union government.

Defense Minister F. C. Erasmus, who represented South Africa in the Simonstown negotiations here, sought British support for the formation of a new regional defense organization of states in Africa south of the Sahara. The idea was to link the new set up with the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Erasmus intends to visit Washington later this year in hopes of selling the idea to the United States, but Britain is reported cool to the plan.

South Africa's racial policy has posed a problem for Britain has many Negro military units in its African colonies. South Africa does not like to arm Negroes, fearing they might use their weapons against the whites.

Britain, nevertheless, has gone some way toward meeting the

Fatally Injured—Another Crash Near Valley Park.

Five persons were killed and 14 were injured in automobile accidents in the St. Louis area over the Fourth of July weekend, police and State Highway Patrol reports indicated today.

Hugh Craig, a model builder at McDonnell Aircraft Corp., 29 Reason drive, Ferguson, suffered fatal injuries last night when the machine he was driving south on Florissant road went out of control and struck a tree at Pembroke drive, Ferguson.

Craig, 38 years old, died at St. Louis County Hospital about three hours after the accident. Witnesses said his car suddenly veered to the left side of the road. Surviving are his wife and five children.

Highway 66 Crash.
Mrs. Mary Eleanor Watkins, 24, of Springfield, Ill., was killed and nine other persons were hurt yesterday afternoon in a three-car accident on U.S. Highway 66 half a mile east of State Highway 141, near Valley Park.

Police said the westbound machine driven by Mrs. Watkins' husband, Benjamin L. Watkins Sr., 30, skidded during a rainstorm and collided with eastbound cars driven by Mrs. Willa K. Gilpin, 22, of Indianapolis, Ind., and by James A. DeSantis, 27, of 4164 Lafayette avenue, St. Louis.

Watkins, their three children, Sharon, 6, Mary Sandra, 5, and 10-month-old Debora, and DeSantis and his wife, Dorothy, 29, were treated at St. Louis County Hospital and released.

Mrs. Gilpin suffered lacerations of the face. Her husband, James R. Gilpin, 29, had head and chest injuries and another passenger, Carolyn Ann Landers, 11, also of Indianapolis, suffered face lacerations and possible internal injuries. The three were transferred to St. Joseph's Hospital, Kirkwood.

East Side Accident.
John Smurlo, 43, of 4722 North Racine avenue, Chicago, was fatally injured yesterday when the car he was driving east on U.S. Highway 66, five miles north-east of Granite City, collided with a machine driven by Ralph Crawford, 1703 Lawrence avenue, East St. Louis.

Smurlo died at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Granite City, Crawford and his wife, Ollie, Negroes, were injured. Also injured were two other occupants of their car, Mrs. Maybelle Carter, 1820 Central avenue, and Mrs. Nellie Billings, 1304 South Nineteenth street, East St. Louis.

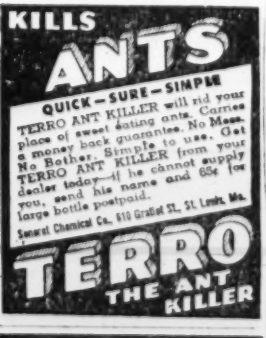

The Illinois Highway police said Smurlo had pulled out to pass an automobile driven by John Schmaeng of Beloit, Wis., when the accident occurred.

Mrs. Elza Oliver, 2930 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, was killed yesterday afternoon in a three-car collision at an underpass on Illinois Route 154 west of Pinckneyville. She was 65 years old.

Wilford Charles Stotler, 29, of 1122 Talmadge avenue, was killed Sunday afternoon on State Highway 19 about 14 miles south of Steelville when the automobile in which he was a passenger struck a tree.

The State Highway Patrol at Rolla said the car was driven by Elbert A. Stonking of St. Louis, who was charged with careless and reckless driving. Officers said he tried to negotiate a curve at excessive speed.

ONE MIG BELIEVED DOWN IN CHIANG, RED PLANE CLASH

TAIPEI, Formosa, July 5 (AP)—Chinese Nationalist and Communist jet fighters clashed over the Formosa strait north of Matsui island yesterday and one MIG probably crashed, the Nationalists reported.

Air force headquarters said four Nationalist F-84 Thunderjets on patrol north of Shuang-feng island were attacked at 5:15 p.m. by four MIGs.

In a 10-minute fight one of the swept-wing Communist planes was reported heavily damaged. An air force communiqué said later it probably crashed while returning to base under escort.

The air force said all four Thunderjets returned safe.

Nationalist patrol planes bombed and strafed Communist craft in Luyuan bay, 15 miles northwest of the Matsui island group early today and set three small armed junks afire, air force headquarters reported.

HUNT FOR MISSING FLYERS IS SHIFTED FROM SEA TO LAND

TOKYO, July 5 (UP)—Scores of American planes searched isolated beaches and mountains today in a final effort to find some trace of two Marine flyers who crashed nine days ago.

The sea hunt was called off yesterday after ships and planes had scoured some 85,000 square miles of the Pacific ocean. But another aerial survey of mountains, islands and the coastline south of Tokyo was ordered on the slim possibility the flyers may have crashed on land or been washed ashore.

The missing men, who are believed to have crashed in the sea in their Skyknight jet, are Capt. Hodgen P. Montague, Jackson, Miss., and Lt. David Bell, Wayzata, Minn.

FOUND DEAD, RIFLE AT SIDE

John H. Gotting, an insurance broker, was found dead in his home yesterday with a gunshot wound in the head. A rifle was by his side.

His wife, Mrs. Mildred Gott-ing, said he was being treated for a nervous condition. He was 49 years old, and lived at 9209 Coral drive, Afton.

The weight you want-and how sugar helps you hold it!

It is your appetite that regulates your weight

But if you are healthy your blood sugar level helps to control your appetite

You are hungriest, and most apt to overeat, when your blood sugar level is low

When it is high you're more quickly satisfied on less food

The food that raises your blood sugar level the fastest is sugar itself

Recent nutritional findings give new importance to sugar and the good foods and beverages that contain it

Summertime is the time when we use the most sugar—in energy-refreshing soft drinks, in ice cream, in glasses of iced tea, on breakfast berries and in fresh fruit desserts.

It is also the season when nature herself puts more sugar in these same sun-ripened fruits and in garden-fresh vegetables—the same kind of sugar she puts in sugar cane and sugar beets.

Yet this is the time of year when most people find it easier to shed surplus pounds.

Science has just recently given us the reason. Sugar plays a part in the healthy body's own weight control system.

Helps prevent overeating

Sugar is known as a quick-energy food because it raises your blood sugar level almost immediately. Now research scientists have found that the blood sugar level also helps to regulate appetite.

When your blood sugar level is low you get hungry. That's your body-call for energy. When you eat, your blood sugar level goes up. When it reaches a certain point your hunger is "turned off". You find it's easy to turn down extra helpings that lead to extra weight.

This explains why your summertime use of sugar helps you to stay satisfied on lighter summer meals.

In this way nature tends to keep the total amount of calories you get from food exactly balanced with the calories you use up as energy. It's a sort of automatic double-entry bookkeeping system that helps to keep you from getting a double chin.

What if you're gaining weight?

Scientists also found that people get hungry more often during the time when they are actually gaining weight than they do when they're maintaining weight. This is the reason many of the newer reducing diets purposely include sugar. Used in "scientific nibbles" it raises the blood sugar level and helps to quickly curb a runaway appetite.

These "scientific nibbles" are made a part of your regular morning and afternoon "energy break". It might be a bottle or glass of your favorite sugar-containing soft drink, a cookie, a piece of candy—or sugar in your coffee or tea. A level teaspoonful contains only 18 calories—can help you cut several times as many calories from the next meal.

How about artificial sweeteners?

After almost a year of study, the Food and Nutrition Board of the National Research Council reported: "There is no clear justification for the use of artificial sweeteners by the general public as a weight reduction procedure."

This authoritative report, in supporting the use of sugar, emphasized, as "especially pertinent" "the desirability of meeting the nutritional needs of the people by the use of natural foods."

Sugar, nature's own pure-food sweetener, makes an important contribution to those nutritional needs.

18 CALORIES

Most people are pleasantly surprised to learn that there are only 18 calories in a spoonful of sugar. Average adults use up that many calories every 7 to 8 minutes throughout their waking hours. Actually "calories" are a measure of energy and you use energy even while you sleep.

All facts in this message apply to both cane and beet sugar.

BRITISH SHIP HIT BY EGYPTIAN SHORE BATTERIES

Damage Reported—Britain Demands Explanation.

CAIRO, July 5 (AP)—The British freighter Anson was holed between decks 16 feet above the waterline when Egyptian shore batteries shelled it Sunday at the entrance to the Gulf of Aqaba, a British Embassy spokesman said today.

He said no casualties or heavy damage had been reported and that the British Government will not consider asking for compensation until the full facts have been received from the Egyptian Government.

He said the 6224-ton vessel was able to continue its journey to Aqaba, Jordan, where it was to pick up Moslem pilgrims from Lebanon, Syria and Jordan on their way to Mecca. Egypt watches the gulf traffic closely because it leads to the southern tip of Israel as well as to Jordan.

The spokesman said the British chargé d'affaires, Ralph Murray, called on Egyptian Deputy Foreign Minister Khairat Said yesterday and demanded an explanation of the shelling.

U.N. Group Finds Egypt Guilty of Truce Violation
JERUSALEM, July 5 (UPI)—The United Nations Israeli-Arab Mixed Armistice Commission last night found Egypt guilty of "serious violation" of the armistice agreement when it shelled three Israeli villages along the Gaza strip May 30.

Israel was condemned for returning the fire. Two persons were killed in the exchange.

WESTERN BERLIN VOTES NEW $250,000 TRUCK TOLL AID

BERLIN, July 5 (UPI)—The Western Berlin city government voted a new $250,000 subsidy yesterday to truckers supplying Berlin to pay for exorbitant Communist road taxes.

The new grant brought to $1,500,000 the total subsidies paid by the city since April 1 when the Reds arbitrarily hiked road tolls eleven-fold on truck traffic between Berlin and West Germany.

Science Discovers New Ointment That Instantly Stops Pain of Sunburn... Turns Redness Into Comfortable Tan

New York, N. Y. (Special):
A leading research institution has discovered a new medicinal substance that instantly stops pain of sunburn... and prevents blistering or peeling... no angry redness may turn to handsome, comfortable tan.

Doctors know that sunburn affects skin just as any ordinary burn does. They also know the body needs oxygen for healing burns. The secret of this new substance is its astonishing ability to draw healing oxygen and nutrients directly from the bloodstream into the sunburned area.

Thus, the sunburned skin heals completely and, except in unusual cases, smooth tan emerges.

This substance is known as Sperit® Ointment. Sperit Ointment does not sting or stain. It is now sold at all drugstores for 98¢ a large tube. Buy Sperit Ointment with the amazing guarantee that your sunburn will turn to a handsome tan, or your money is refunded.

New Production and Sales Records Expected This Year

Steel, Autos, Building, Aluminum, Chemical and Rubber Industries All Exceed Earlier Estimates.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Weeks announced yesterday that a mid-year survey of the nation's major industries indicated they will set new production and sales records this year.

The survey was conducted by the 25 industry divisions of the Commerce Department's Business and Defense Services Administration. It covered more than 400 manufacturing industries.

A similar survey at the outset of the year indicated "a general high level of production" in 1953. Weeks said, adding that mid-year reassessment showed that "steel, automobile, chemical, aluminum, chemicals, rubber and others, have far exceeded" the earlier estimates.

Weeks made public an industry-by-industry summary of prospects for the last half of this year. This indicates "considerable slackening in iron and steel production," but said that the automobile industry probably would break its 1950 production record.

Businesses at Record Level.
The aircraft, construction, consumer durable goods, chemicals, rubber, paper and newspaper businesses were pictured in the report as being at record, or near record levels.

The report predicted "sweeping price reductions" in color TV sets over the next six months.

Virtually the only major industry segment to report 1955 expectations sharply lower than 1954 business was the machine tool industry. The report said the machine tools industry sold some $390,000,000 worth of products in the first half of this year. This indicates "a sharp decline" in the industry.

Estimated total of about $670, 000,000 for the entire year compares with shipments of slightly over a billion dollars in 1954.
A Commerce department official said the fall-off was due to completion of heavy government orders last year and that a pickup of shipments is expected next year from big government orders being placed later this year, many of them on a long-range three or four year basis.

Other Highlights.
Other highlights of the report were:

Iron and Steel—Advance orders are flowing in strongly.
Steel production should continue at high levels in the last half of the year. However, the last half of the year is likely to be "slightly below" the near-record six months output in the first half of the year. The slight decline in the last half of the year will be partly due to summer vacation and partly to a "moderate decline" in automobile production due principally to model change-overs.

Throughout the rest of the year rolled steel products, particularly rolled steel, will be in tight supply.

Automobiles and Trucks—"All indications are that the 1955 total production of automobiles will exceed the 1950 all-time record—6,665,863. First half production, estimated at 4,270, 000 units, will be the largest six months in history. "Truck production... will be close to the 1950 record of 1,337,193."

Aircraft—Production of aircraft for civil use is rising rapidly, and will probably show a gain of about 30 per cent this year over 1954. Production for military use "should keep the industry's 800,000 workers busy."

Shipbuilding—No increase in building of ocean-going vessels is in sight for the last half of the year, but the construction of smaller, recreational craft is growing rapidly, and should exceed all previous records for this small boat production this year.

Construction—A new survey indicates that construction should shatter all previous records this year. Outlays totalling about $13.4 billion are planned for the last half of the year. This was two billion dollars higher than an estimate for the year made last December and would be more than four billion dollars higher than outlays in 1954 or just over 37 1/2 million dollars above the 1953 record.

Building of private homes is leading the way and it is now expected that some 1,300,000 non-farm new homes will be started this year.

BIG JET AIRLINER MAKES ITS DEBUT IN MOSCOW SHOW

New Fighters and Long-Range Bombers Also Unveiled—400 Planes Displayed.

By KENNETH BRODNEY
MOSCOW, July 5 (UPI)—More than 400 planes, including a new jet airliner and new types of jet fighters and long-range bombers, flashed over Moscow Sunday in the biggest display of Soviet airpower yet.

Unveiled for the first time was a four-engine jet airliner that placed Russia firmly in the race for supremacy in civilian jet flight. The Soviet Union's first all jet four-engine transport, it is expected to be named the Ilyushin-20 after aircraft designer Sergei Ilyushin.

Also making their public debut were a turbo-prop intercontinental bomber, a twin-jet all-weather fighter, a supersonic single-jet fighter and a troop-carrying twin-rotor helicopter. (In Washington, Senator Stuart Symington, (Dem.), of Missouri said the display indicates the United States has "lost a degree of air supremacy." Symington, a Secretary for Air during the Truman administration, called on the Eisenhower administration to give the American people "the facts.")

Envoys See Show.
The show was witnessed by members of the foreign diplomatic corps, their air and military attaches and thousands of Russian civilians. The Yugoslav and Indian chiefs of air staff attended as special guests of the government.

Photographs were permitted only of the civilian part of the demonstration. Foreign ministry officials confiscated pictures I snapped of the military planes.

Highlights of the show included:
A 12-plane formation of the big intercontinental bombers which startled western air attaches at the May Day air show last year when one model flew past. Known in the West as the Bison, the bombers appear to be in mass production.

A formation of seven long-range four-engine turbo-prop bombers, believed to be capable of refuelling in flight like the huge bombers of the United States Strategic Air Command. It was their first showing. Like the Bison, the turbo-prop bombers are believed capable of delivering atomic or hydrogen bombs.

A flight of 50 new needle-nosed twin-jet radar-equipped all-weather fighters, apparently in mass production. It was their first public appearance.

A flight of 48 single-jet fighters similar to the supersonic United States F-100 Super Sabre and France's new Supra-Mystere, displayed for the first time.

Giant Helicopters.
Four giant twin-rotor troop-carrying helicopters similar to an American helicopter called the Mule.

A flight of 23 swept-wing MIG 17s—a souped-up version of the MIG-15 of the Korean war. Observers believed the models are now considered obsolete by the Soviets.

A flight of 54 twin-jet bombers known as the Badgers in the West.

No delta-winged aircraft were displayed and no mention was made by commentators of vertical takeoff aircraft. But qualified western observers said they believed it to be "a virtual certainty" that the Soviets are experimenting with such designs.

About half of the planes that participated were civilian-type. The most popular with the spectators was a glider with wings that flapped. It had been displayed before, but as usual fascinated the crowds. The glider was towed over Moscow by another plane and then released to soar up with its wings flapping like some giant bird.

"This original, the world's first machine with flapping wings, was constructed by Aleksandr Yuryevich Molochkov of Kiev," a commentator announced.

A feature of the show was a mass jump by women parachutists.

Singer Reports $32,000 Robbery.

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—Eartha Kitt, nightclub singer, reported to police that furs and jewelry valued at $32,000 were stolen last night from her penthouse apartment while she was attending a movie. She said the loss was insured.

Flashes of Life

This Mixed-Up World.

TOKYO (AP)—The newspaper Asahi frontpaged a cartoon showing how some foreigners are adopting Japanese ways. It showed an American couple lounging in kimonos. In the foreground was a junior, sporting a coonskin cap and brandishing a cap pistol.

Something to Reach For.

MANCHESTER, England (UPI)—Dr. T. E. Jessop, vice president of the Methodist Conference of England, criticized churchgoers who sing hymns with their hands in their pockets.

"The only time in a service when a hand may and should move in a pocket is at the offertory," he told the denomination's annual assembly.

Sweet Tooth.

FORT HURON, Mich. (AP)—Burt Mugavero, 21 years old, and James Spencer, 22, of Hillsdale, Mich., are held in the county jail on a charge of petty larceny. Police accused them of taking a four-foot cake from the wedding reception here of Edward Coleman and his bride, Myrtle Carpenter.

RED, WHITE, BLUE MAIL BOXES SOON DUE ALL OVER U.S.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Red, white and blue mail boxes will shortly start to bloom on street corners all over the country, replacing the olive-drab letter-collectors that have been standard since World War I.

Postmaster General Summerfield said in a Fourth of July announcement that his department is ready to go ahead with a general program for shifting the boxes to these patriotic and "more cheerful colors" after trying out the idea in Washington and elsewhere.

He said the tri-color finish had been found more durable.

made the mail box easier to spot from a distance, and also provided a desirable contrast to temporary mail-storage boxes on the street, which will continue to be dark green.

The new boxes are painted blue, with red tops and the lettering "U. S. Mail" in white. The department has ordered 19,000 such boxes and will convert boxes now in use as their time for period re-painting comes up.

Russian Farm Output Faltered In 1954, Red Bloc Imported Much Grain, Report Shows

East-West Trade Increased 15 Per Cent
From 1953 — Communist Production
Inadequate and Consumer Is Fed Propaganda but Not Much to Eat or Wear.

By JACK TAIT

The New York Herald Tribune-Post-Dispatch Special Dispatch.
WASHINGTON, July 5.

EAST-WEST trade figures for 1954 reflect a faltering farm output within the Soviet bloc which forced Russia and its satellites for the first time to import grain on "a large scale" from the West.

This and other evidence of a strained economy within the Communist world and of Soviet failure so far to gain an economic grip on underdeveloped areas was presented yesterday in the sixth semiannual report to Congress of operations under the Mutual Defense Assistance Control Act of 1951.

The report was made public by Harold E. Stassen, who retired as director of the Foreign Operations Administration on Friday when the FOA was succeeded by the International Co-operation Administration.

Increase in Trade

The report, entitled "Soviet Bloc Economic Activities in the Free World," shows that in 1954 East-West trade in terms of value increased by 15 per cent over 1953.

But this rise occurred principally in the first six months of last year. Since restrictions on trade in strategic materials were eased in August 1954, there has been no spectacular expansion in East-West commerce.

The Mutual Defense Assistance Control Act (Battle Act) provides curbs by the United States and co-operating foreign countries on shipment of strategic materials to Russia and its allies.

In a letter of transmittal to Congress, Stassen said that the Soviet bloc so far has failed "to divide free nations which are co-operating in the control of strategic materials." He said: "These nations, although willing to trade in peaceful wares, have not only refused to ship strategic materials but have strengthened their controls over war-potential items." The control program was tightened last January.

Propaganda Devices

The extent of Soviet economic activity in underdeveloped areas is grossly exaggerated by propaganda devices, the report said. "It is important that their (Russia's) efforts not be exaggerated in the free world," the report said, "for to do so would be to play right into Communist hands; they hope to give a false idea of their economic strength and intentions."

"As a matter of fact in many quarters the Soviet intentions are viewed with skepticism; the ability of the Communists to give large-scale assistance without seriously impairing their own development—is in some doubt, and actual Soviet-bloc investments to date have been very small compared with the assistance which has been flowing into the same areas since 1949 under the auspices of the United Nations, the United States and other countries of the free world."

The report said that in the Soviet bloc last year "domestic production was inadequate and chronic and acute problems plagued agriculture."

Not Much to Eat or Wear

Despite sizable increases in food imports, including a "spectacular" increase in meat imports by Russia, the Soviet consumer, the report said, "is left pretty much where he was before—with lots of propaganda and not very much to eat or wear."

Former Exports Used at Home

The big problem of the Soviet group, the report said, is to find enough exports to offset increased food and capital goods imports. Traditional exports in the past have been gathered from the farm, forest and mine. But now these products are being consumed on the home front.

Grain exports dropped from 2,675,000 tons in the 1952-53 season to 1,256,000 tons in the 1953-54 season and, the report said, "prospects for the 1954-55 season are no better."

"One of the most interesting of all changes in the pattern of Soviet bloc imports, the report said, is the influx of bread grains from the free world. This is especially interesting because eastern Europe has traditionally relied upon grain as its leading export."

The Soviet Union has become the world's third largest meat buyer and the world's second largest butter buyer.

Effect of Collectivization

Agriculture in Russia has been "sick" and "has fallen off badly" in the satellites, the report said. The difficulty in the satellites, it was said, has been caused by imposition of a Communist collectivization program. A "main conclusion" of the report was "despite various alterations in the whole east-west trade picture, there is more that remains the same (from 1953 to 1954) than has changed—both internally and externally in Soviet foreign economic policy."

"If anything, this last year has shown more clearly that commodity exchanges entered into by the Soviet bloc countries are inevitably connected to broader government economic and political motivations in which trade is not an end in itself but a vehicle of an often aggressive total foreign policy."

Stassen reported that western trade with Communist China declined somewhat last year, although there was "a marked increase" in Chinese trade with Japan. In that connection, he said Communist markets "show no promise" of being sufficiently large to help Japan solve its trade problems.

Japanese exports to Red China were said to have jumped from $4,500,000 in 1953 to about $19,000,000 last year. That compared with total western shipments to China last year of about $285,000,000, mostly in the form of fertilizers, textiles and medicine.

Secret White House Meeting Led to Dixon-Yates Retreat

Administration Worried About Possible
Law Violation — Senators Had Evidence of Wall Street Intervention.

By DREW PEARSON

(Copyright, 1955.)

WASHINGTON.

THE SUDDEN Eisenhower decision to re-examine the Dixon-Yates contract was preceded by a highly important secret meeting at the White House. It took place on the morning before the President issued his statement, and was attended by Adm. Lewis Strauss, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, with Attorney General Brownell later called in for consultation.

What worried them was possible violation of the criminal code as charged by Senator Kefauver when he discovered that Adolph Wenzell of the First Boston Corp., which helped arrange Dixon-Yates financing, had sat in on the super-secret Budget Bureau-Atomic Energy Commission sessions.

Though an alibi had been issued that the First Boston Corp. took no fee for arranging the Dixon-Yates financing, the criminal code which Kefauver cited does not rest on the actual taking of money, and that was why Brownell was consulted.

Also worrying Strauss and the President was the fact that Senator Clinton Anderson of New Mexico, chairman of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee, had subpoenaed the records of the Atomic Energy Commission showing what visitors had called on Strauss during the Dixon-Yates talks.

The AEC keeps a careful record of every visitor entering the building. The visitor has to sign his name, tell whom he is going to see, and is assigned an escort to take him to the appropriate office. The record shows what material, brief case, etc., every visitor carries.

The AEC records subpoenaed by Anderson showed that on Jan. 20 Wenzell had called on Strauss. With Wenzell, believe it or not, were Edgar Dixon, partner in the Dixon-Yates combine, and Paul Miller, also of the First Boston Corp.

The AEC visitors' record noted: "Mr. Wenzell left by the back door carrying a large envelope."

In contrast to this record in the hands of Democratic Senators, the President had stated at his press conference that Wenzell "was never called in or asked a single thing about the Yates-Dixon contract."

In further contrast, Dick Cook, manager of the Atomic Energy Commission, had admitted under oath on June 8 before the SEC that Wenzell attended meetings at the AEC which considered Dixon-Yates in January. Chairman Strauss himself was placed in rather an embarrassing position by the written record because last November, when the Joint Congressional Committee was probing the mysterious manner in which the Dixon-Yates contract was hurriedly OK'd by the President despite a 3-to-2 vote against it by the AEC, Congressman Chet Holifield of California asked Strauss:

"Do you know if Mr. Dodge was advised by a consultant

Ambassadors No Longer Shadowed, Soviet Bosses Exude Jollity at Parties, Children Dance in Red Square.

By STEWART ALSOP

(Copyright, 1955.)

MOSCOW.

THERE has unquestionably been a change here in Russia. Everyone in a position to judge agrees on that. But no one knows how deep the change goes, or what it means.

Part of the change is wholly superficial. The American and British ambassadors, for example, recently lost their tails, and there is now no visible surveillance of Westerners. The Soviet bosses, at Western receptions, now mingle jovially in the crowd, making small jokes. One or two of them have been known to attend, alone, small private affairs in Western embassies.

Old Moscow hands have been particularly flabbergasted by the kind of dispatches visiting journalistic firemen have been permitted to send out. But this sort of thing has required hardly more than a simple administrative decision. Has there also been a change at a deeper level, a change not so easily controlled?

Old hands—some of them—claim to detect signs of a deeper change. Even for the newcomer there are experiences which are to put it mildly, unexpected. Take, for example, the all-night parties on Red Square, opposite the Kremlin and the tombs of Lenin and Stalin. These parties have been going on for some nights past, starting around midnight and going on full swing till well after five in the morning. Strictly in line of duty, this reporter attended two such parties.

The parties are celebrations of high school and college graduations. They are by no means saturnalia, or all-night drunks. On the contrary, the boys are well-behaved, within reason, and the girls are downright demure, wearing long white dresses and no lipstick. Indeed, aside from the peculiar time and the unexpected locale, the Red Square parties nostalgically recalled the graduation dances of a simpler era in America.

At any rate, they are wonderful fun—or at least the first one this reporter dutifully attended was. Everyone was obviously having a marvelous time, with much singing, dancing, balalaika-playing, shy hand-holding and bold ogling.

The party-goers found this reporter and other visiting firemen a welcome sideshow. Communication was quickly established somehow. So was the fact that we were Americans. Then we were soon surrounded, like so many two-headed calves, by large groups of politely giggling teen-agers. They asked questions about how we liked Moscow or what life was like in America, and there was an occasional reference (favorable) to peace.

Although the conversations were not memorable, the spectacle was—the dancing and singing and cavorting in Red Square in the early, bright Moscow dawn. It was a fine party. According to those who should know, nothing like it has ever

FLEESON Johnson Boom Stalled by Heart Attack

Naval Hospital
Will Keep Him
There for 'an Unknown Period.'

By DORIS FLEESON

WASHINGTON, July 5.

THE doctors at the Naval Medical Center say that they are going to keep Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson in their custody for "an unknown period." Whether they can keep him away from visitors and the telephone remain to be seen. His wife seldom could when he has been ill.

The Senate fortunately is over the hump of its year's work. A few days ago Johnson announced that the leaders were putting pressure on committee chairmen to complete major bills. He indicated that once these were disposed of, they would not hold Congress in session. Adjournment, he thought, might come by July 30.

Democrats expect to adhere to that schedule. A few "sticky" matters remain—the reserve bill, for instance—but most really controversial issues will be, if possible, postponed.

The Johnson Boom

The immediate political casualty of Senator Johnson's heart attack is personal. It is the Johnson boom for President which was doing fine. The situation regarding it is a perfect illustration of the accident nature of politics.

The groundwork laid for it was not accidental at all. In 1952, the Senator from Texas deliberately sought the leadership job which had proved a jinx to his immediate predecessors, Ernest McFarland and Scott Lucas. In a foretaste of his methods, he had the votes before the Senators even returned to Washington.

Since then he has skillfully built a Democratic center party in the Senate. His masterpiece was persuading senior Democrats to forego their seniority claims in part so that every Democrat, including freshmen, got a major committee. On that foundation he has built his impressive displays of unity. In 1954 he won re-election easily. Johnson is, of course, a natural candidate for president on the record he has so greatly influenced. His boom has been

DRUMMOND Outcome of Cold War Hinges On Allen Dulles and His CIA

His Agency Called Most Vital Arm of
dicates It Could Improve.

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON, July 5.

If you drew up a list of the 10 most influential officials in Washington, his name would probably not even occur to you.

If you looked at a chart of the federal government and sought to trace the lines of largest authority, his agency would hardly be visible.

He sits in the cabinet not by act of Congress, as do most of the other members, but by special direction of the President. I am referring to Allen W. Dulles. He administers the least publicized, the least understood but the most vital arm of the United States government, the Central Intelligence Agency.

Whether as its director Dulles does or does not do his job well—overwhelmingly well—very likely determines, more than any other service to the President, whether we are winning or losing the cold war, whether we are or are not making the right judgments toward averting an atomic war.

The Dulles-operated CIA is the intelligence instrument of the National Security Council within which the most important decisions of policy and action are made.

Must Provide Appraisal. Dulles makes no policy decisions whatsoever—and nothing could more misleadingly measure the critical and powerful role he plays.

What it is Dulles's duty to do is to provide the basis—that is, the information, the appraisal, the intelligence estimates—on which the highest policy decisions are made.

If the CIA's intelligence is inadequate, then American policy will almost inevitably be inadequate.

If there are serious shortcomings in the CIA's operations and if there are serious blind spots in the CIA's intelligence estimates—this isn't something that is just regrettable, this is something close to fatal.

All this is why the Gen. Mark Clark task-force study and report on the CIA and related intelligence agencies of the government, undertaken for the Hoover commission, cannot be appraised on the same basis as other critiques of other federal operations.

No Reason to Boast. What I am trying to say is that there is no good having a second-best air force.

THOMAS L. STOKES

The Selfish Grab for Public Power

WASHINGTON.

ONE WAY OF LOOKING at this battle between private and public development of our great river systems is as a battle between two types of minds. One is the countinghouse, stock-broker mind which never raises its eyes beyond its ledgers and the ticker tape.

It sees a power site as a means of a profit for a utility company that holds the monopoly, an item on an account sheet, and not as a unit in a possible bigger and broader development of a whole river system which, instead, would benefit everybody in the region and the whole economy.

Theodore Roosevelt

He saw likewise that only the Federal Government can develop a whole river system, including its tributaries, in an integrated way to get the most out of it for the most people in the way of hydro-electric power, irrigation, navigation and flood control.

Better Living Pays Off.

Theodore Roosevelt never lived to see his dream come true, but some of the rest of us now have come to see the beginning of it. We are thrilled when we visit the great dams here and there which the people have built for themselves.

All of that not only enriches human living but actually pays out many times in income tax returns to our federal treasury. One wonders what Theodore Roosevelt would say could he come back today and see the countinghouse mind once dominant again, plotting against any further realization of the dream which still is only partly fulfilled. One wonders, for instance, what Theodore Roosevelt would say to Herbert Hoover.

Hoover on Muscle Shoals.

To one who has seen much of the story develop, it is not hard to understand why the cold, countinghouse mind has been directed at our water resources program by the Hoover Commission.

We who were around here then can remember how Herbert Hoover opposed the public development of Muscle Shoals in Alabama—which in time flowered into the great TVA—and vetoed in 1931 a bill passed by Congress for that purpose, as had President Calvin Coolidge before him in that countinghouse era of the 1920s.

The memory goes back still further to an early assignment of a young reporter who was covering the hearings before the House Military Affairs Committee in 1922 on various bills authorizing the sale of the first World War Wilson Dam at Muscle Shoals and its nitrate plants to private industries, the bidders including Henry Ford.

But a farseeing Senator, George W. Norris of Nebraska, saw possibilities of its development in the public interest for electric power and cheap fertilizer for farmers. Though his bill for that purpose were vetoed by the two Presidents, he prevented passage of bills to hand over the government dam and plants—paid for by the taxpayers—to private interests at bargain prices.

Norris's Dream Comes True. When Franklin D. Roosevelt succeeded Herbert Hoover in the White House he espoused a broadening of the Norris Muscle Shoals venture into the TVA embracing the whole Tennessee river system.

The way was prepared for sound, integrated public development of our river systems in the public interest by the Federal Trade Commission, authorized by the Senate in the Hoover Administration.

That showed how the utilities had failed us. Revealed was the exploitation of the monopolies they controlled—the inflation of book values to increase the rate base and rates; the piling up of one leading company upon another to milk out profits; the frenzied speculation in utility stocks.

Highly Financed Campaign.

All of that was corrected by various reform statutes, including the Public Utility Holding Company Act and the Securities and Exchange Act, among others. The result was a stabilization of the business of the utilities from which they and the public benefited.

Their business expanded greatly, hand-in-hand with public development of great river projects.

Now this balance of functions is threatened again. Utility interests are seeking to upset it, to try to stop necessary public development and hog it all for themselves in uneconomic and piecemeal development for profits that will, go only to them, instead of benefits for all the real stockholders of our natural resources, the people.

To accomplish that, a highly financed campaign is now reaching out in all directions.

It would be a good time to take a look at this campaign as the Federal Trade Commission looked at it a quarter of a century ago.

CONTROVERSIAL ART EXHIBIT AT LIBRARY

Ohio Painters Largely Abstract or Apparently Unplanned in Style.

By HOWARD DERRICKSON

An advance-guard art show, a remarkable rarity in conservative downtown St. Louis, has opened at the Central Public Library art room. Included are 48 water colors and prints by young artists who form the "Ohio State Group." The display, from which purchases have been made in other cities, is being circulated by the Studio Guild, Redding, Conn.

Predominant idioms are abstraction, expressionism and abstract expressionism, the controversial and apparently planless style of sinuous pourings of paint introduced by Jackson Pollock of New York. In the hands of this vigorously experimental band of young artists, disputed manners of expression take on fresh vitality and validity.

Closest to Pollock—at first glance, anyway—is Evelyn Wentz, winner of three foundation grants in the last four years. Her "Composition With Yellow," employing mixed mediums and unorthodox techniques, surpasses Pollock's work in delicacy if not in strength. She held a solo show at the Toledo (O.) Art Museum in 1952.

David Skeggs, recently Youngstown (O.) College art department head, now Sioux City (Ia.) Art Center director, excels and is most himself in such semi-abstract prints as "Reveille," a stylized design of a crowing rooster. In "Combat," a water color, he is drawn too closely into the Pollock orbit.

Boatright, Fred Newman, successor to Skeggs at Youngstown College, shows himself an expressionist in the Rouault tradition in water colors and prints of religious subjects and clowns.

Benjamin Dodd alternates between the Rouaultesque, as in the black-outlined "Congregation," and the Pollock school, in the lacy arabesques of "Growing Garden," product of the drip-and-pour technique.

Patrick Vaccaro's serigraphs, or silk-screen prints, are most successful when least ambitious. "Composition in Greys," for instance, uses the medium with restraint, whereas the elaborate and over-geometrical "Weight and Strength of God" seems overloaded with circles as well as with significance.

Mrs. Dorothy Breen Neuman, art department chief, who acknowledged to incredulous visitors that she had booked the show, is awaiting further public reaction with no little trepidation. She anticipates being on the receiving end of indignant comments, she said, at least until the exhibition closes July 31.

Her business expanded greatly, hand-in-hand with public development of great river projects.

It was a grand and glorious Fourth July evening last night at Municipal Opera, not for any patriotic reason I could discern, but simply because they were introducing Forest Park audiences to that zestful, exuberant and thoroughly funny piece of American folklore, "Guys and Dolls."

The 8000 refugees from fire-crackers and sparklers who attended (they didn't quite escape, as there was a steady rumbling of a distant cannonade playing obligato to the first half) really saw a show.

Producer John Kennedy and his staff captured all the flavor of the clever and smart tailoring of the Damon Runyan Broadway fable into musical and dance terms. Abe Burrows, probably using more of his own dandy and original wit than Runyan's, Jo Swerling, and Frank Loesser's richly comic and sprightly songs, and sparkling arrangements, brought these raffish fictional eccentrics into a special musical life of their own, a lusty, flavorful portrait halfway between keen satire and carefree burlesque.

All this was aptly reproduced in the Mundy production. They had to tone down the struts and wiggles of the babes in the Hot Box night spot, true, but such things as the wild ballet amid the sewer crap game, following the original Michael Kidd choreography, were captured exactly.

The show is a natural, just as long as you cast it right down to the most minor characters, and the opera people managed to do that quite nicely. Jacquelinne James, as Miss Adelaide, the night-cloth doll, had a shrewd and persistent comic sense to highlight the role; personally, I would have liked a little more brassiness in the part, but Smith, as the big-shot gambler, Sky Masterson, was just right, a whip-lash, taut picture of hardness suddenly assailed by tender doubt. So was Sid Stone as the unhappy proprietor of New York's oldest floating crap game, Nathan Detroit. Betty Oakes, as Sarah Brown, the mission lassie who ensnares Sky Masterson, I could take or leave; no vital objections, you understand, but I could envision, and have seen, a greater outpouring of pure, distilled charm in the role.

For the over-all tang of the piece, much depends on the flavor extracted from the minor roles, and this was accomplished with surprising finesse by the opera. Jack Collins as the round Nicely-Nicely Johnson, Michael Pollock as the hyper-tensioned Benny Southstreet, Andy Sabilla as a five-by-five Harry the Horse, and Vic Holbrook, a professional wrestler, as Big Jule, the lethal guy from Chicago who introduced his own code, on which only he could read the spots, were outstanding.

Paul C. McGuire's sets were both clever and functional, making a minimum of waiting in 16 scenes. The show, one of the most amusing ever presented at the Forest Park theater, continues through Sunday night.

POPULATION IN U.S. PUT AT 165,250,000 BY CENSUS BUREAU

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—The Census Bureau has estimated the nation's total population has grown to 165,250,000 persons.

That is about 55 times the population when representatives of some 3,000,000 persons signed the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776.

Nowdays, more babies are born each year than the nation's total population at the first national census in 1790, when 3,929,214 Americans were counted. The Census Bureau estimated that at the nation's birth there were fewer than 3,000,000 Americans.

Last year, the net increase in United States population was 2,823,000—births plus immigration minus deaths and emigration. This was the largest numerical gain for any one year in the country's history. The Census Bureau estimated that in the first six months of this year the nation's net population increased by about 1,333,000.

TRUMAN TURNS OVER BOOK TO PUBLISHER

500,000-Word Manuscript of Memoirs Completed by Ex-President.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, July 5.—Former President Harry S. Truman has turned over the 500,000-word completed manuscript of his memoirs to Life magazine, it was announced here yesterday.

The memoirs will be published serially, starting in late September, in Life, the St. Louis Post-Dispatch and the New York Times.

The 71-year-old Democrat spent more than two years on the book, which covers his boyhood, his public life in Missouri, his service in the United States Senate and his years in the White House.

Truman originally had planned to complete the project early this year, but was delayed by illness last summer when he had a gall bladder operation. A spokesman for the magazine said the former President indicated he had to "put on the steam" to finish when he did.

Truman was quoted as saying his memory "held up well" in recalling details of his career, but the writing was arduous and lengthy, because facts were completely checked to insure accuracy. He suggested "efficient record keeping and a devotion to the task" as the two principal requirements for memoir writing.

In the work, Truman was aided by a research staff headed by David M. Noyes and William Hillman. He praised the aids for their "patience and painstaking thoroughness."

The project occupied the former President during his regular office hours in his suite in the Federal Reserve Bank Building here and during many evenings at his home in nearby Independence. He began the work in February 1953, shortly after leaving the White House.

Andrew Heiskell, Life publisher, said the original manuscript eventually would be given to the Harry S. Truman Library. Ground for the library, to house documents and papers of Truman's more than seven years as President, was broken in Independence in May.

Doubleday will publish the memoirs in book form, in two volumes. One is scheduled for October release. The second will be issued next February. Foreign publication rights will be controlled by International Cooperation Press Service Inc.

Ed Furgol, Joe Conrad and 3 Other Yanks Qualify in British Open

Clayton Pro's 142 7 Strokes Off Lead

ST. ANDREWS, Scotland, July 5 (UP)—Frank Jowle of England led the qualifiers for the British Open golf championship today with a 135 and Lt. Joe Conrad of San Antonio, Tex., paced the United States entrants and all amateurs with a 139.

Only five of the United States entrants is qualified. Conrad, newly-crowned British Amateur champion, matched his 135 on both nine of the Old Course with a 36-36-72. He and Ireland's Joe Carr got into yesterday's sensational scoring by matching 67's — the lowest rounds ever shot on the new course by amateurs.

Ed Furgol of Clayton, Mo., and Byron Nelson of Fort Worth, Tex., the other two big United States hopes, also qualified for the 72-hole championship proper which begins tomorrow on the 400-year-old "Old" course.

Furgol took a six on the first hole of the Old course but wound up with a one-under-par 71 for a 36-hole total of 142. He also had a 71 yesterday. Nelson also played the Old course today and finished after shooting a four-over-par 76 to go with his first round 69.

Jim McHale, former Walker Cupper from Wynnwood, Pa., had the third best score among the Yank entries. He qualified with a 145 after adding a new course 73 to his Monday 70. Johnny Bulla, the veteran professional from Pittsburgh, made a good comeback today with a one-under-par 70 on the new course and won a place in the championship flight with a 147. He had a five-over-par 77 yesterday on the old course. He was the last of the five Americans to get in under the qualifying limit of 148.

Jowle gave the eighty-third British Open a fast start yesterday when he shot a 63 on the new course. It was the best round in the tournament's history and the finest score ever earned in this birthplace of the game.

Scots Follow Furgol. Furgol didn't have any three-putt greens today, but his greens game wasn't as sharp as usual. He did drop a 20-footer on the fourth for a birdie three and a six-footer on the eleventh. The Missouri star, who has become a favorite with the Scots because of his fine play despite his withered left arm, drew the "biggest gallery" — about 1000 — as he recovered from his experience with the creek on the first hole. The creek, which crosses the first and eighteenth fairways, is three feet wide and two feet deep.

"Getting into that creek is like being hit with a kneepunch," Furgol said. "Your game is a bit rough when you get a six where you should get a three. I know if I ever quit golf, I'd make lots of money selling drinks to the St. Andrews." George Fazio, Los Angeles professional, and Ed Lowery, San Francisco amateur, were the first Yanks to finish today. Fazio shot an 80 on the par 72 Old course and appeared to have gained a berth in the championship with a 36-hole total of 150. Lowery also appeared to be in with a 149. He shot a three-over-par 74 on the New course after collecting a 75 on the old layout yesterday.

In past years, a 150 would have been a cinch for a berth in the championship flight. The lowest previous qualifying score in the tournament was 155 last year at England's Royal Birkdale layout. The lowest qualifying score in previous Opens at St. Andrews was 159.

Each of the 270 entrants played one qualifying round on each course.

Jowle's qualifying score was only one stroke off the all-time record for the Open of 66-68 — 134 set by Bobby Jones at England's Sunningdale course in 1926.

Ten Americans failed to qualify. Mortie Dutra of Los Angeles, United States pro senior champion, and amateur Eddie Lowery of San Francisco missed by one stroke. Playing the Old course today, Dutra finished with 70-79 — 149. Fazio of Philadelphia, skied to 80 on the Old course after a 70 on the new.

Others were Mike Krak, Welton, W. Va. 72-78-150; Jack Munger, Dallas, 76-76-152; Harold N. Kirkpatrick, Greenville, Ky., 73-82-155; O. F. Woodward, Palm Beach, Fla., 78-82-160; R. D. Lutz, Clearwater, Fla., 88-81-169; W. A. Wickliffe, Greenville, Ky., 79-81-170 and Calvin Cook, Steubenville, Ohio, 80-83-172. All but Krak are amateurs.

Ford and Antimo to Coach All-Star Nine

MOBERLY, Mo., July 5 (AP)—Tom Ford of Booneville and Tony Antimo of Columbia have been named coaches of the Central Missouri Ban Johnson League all-star team.

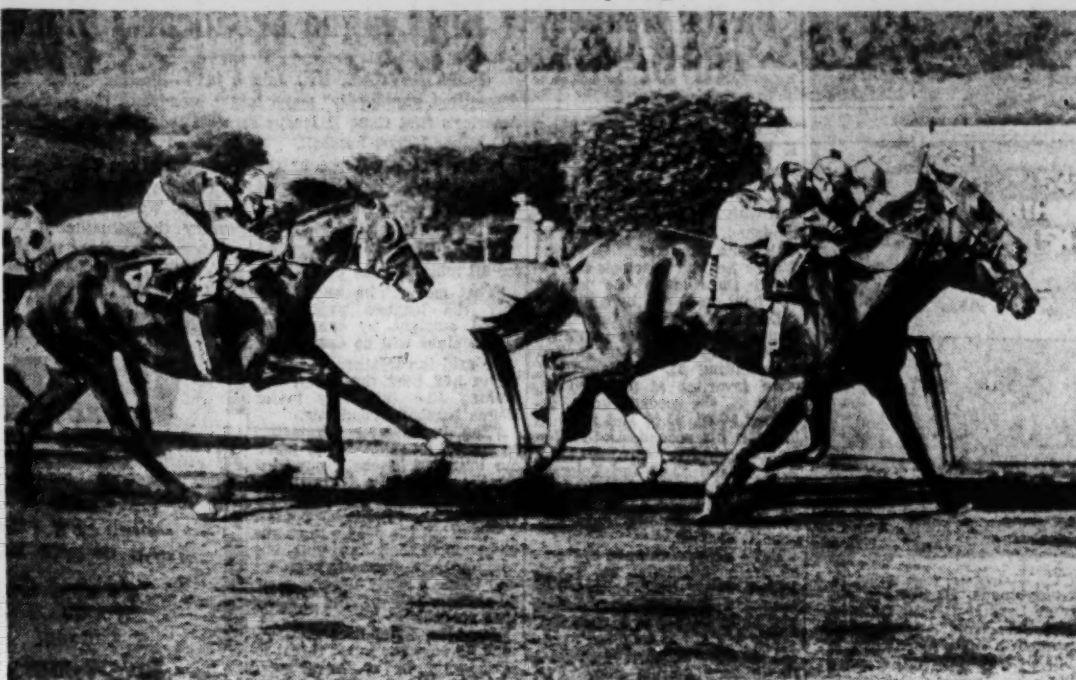

They were the choices of Jim Hampton of Moberly, who was elected by the Ban Johnson League pilots to manage the squad.

The all-stars will meet the Jefferson City Bears, first half pennant winners, in the annual game Thursday night at Jefferson City.

American Disqualified.

TAMPERE, Finland, July 5 (UP)—Dick Blair of the University of Kansas won the 100-meter dash in 10.7 seconds in an international track meet. Tom Courtney of Fordham University was disqualified in the 800-meter run when he ran off the track while leading the field.

Close to Dead Heat in Tying World Record

Louis B. Mayer's ALIDON (on outside) barely noses out MISTER GUS in winning the $53,750 American Handicap at Hollywood Park track, Inglewood, Calif. Alidon was clocked at 1:46 4-5 for the mile and one-eighth, equalling the record set by Noor in 1950. JOHNNY LONGDEN rode the winner; WILLIE SHOEMAKER was on Mister Gus. Rejected is shown finishing third. Among the also rans was Determine, the 1954 Kentucky Derby winner.

Alidon Equals World Record In Winning American Handicap

INGLEWOOD, Calif., July 5 (UP)—The French blue and pink silks of Louis B. Mayer, almost obscured from American racing after his retirement from the sport nine years ago, today once again stood out at Hollywood Park through the efforts of his colt, Alidon.

Alidon whipped the top handicap horses in the west yesterday in the $53,750 American Handicap and also equaled the world's record for a mile and an eighth.

For Mayer it recalled the days when his Honeydome, Busher and Thumbs Up dominated western racing.

The American Handicap was worth $30,700 and sent Alidon's earnings to $161,400, of which $158,975 has been earned since Jan. 1.

The American was the second $50,000 stakes Alidon has won at the meeting and the second time he has broken the track record. In the Argonaut Handicap on Memorial day weekend he set a mile mark. Yesterday his 1:46 4-5 for the one mile and one eighth equaled the world's record set by Noor at Golden Gate Fields in 1950.

Mister Gus Hardluck Horse. In finishing second by a nose, Mister Gus proved himself the hardluck colt of the meeting. He was second by a head to Determine in the Inglewood Handicap. And he was second to Alidon in the Argonaut and third behind Swaps and Determine in the Californian.

Rejected, winner of the American last year, was third with Porterhouse fourth and Determine fifth in the six-horse field. Johnny Longden rode Alidon and gained his eighth stakes win of the meeting equalling the mark set in 1946 by Jack Westrope.

Long Shot Gains Victory. Highlight of Eastern racing was the triumph of outsider Bobby Brocato in America's richest sprint race for mature horses, the $81,100 Carter Handicap at Aqueduct.

The race was supposed to lie between High Gun and Helioscope, two of the very best in the handicap division, but High Gun trailed in sixth and Helioscope tenth. Social Outcast, another "big name" horse, finished with a rush but had to settle for second, a length behind Bobby Brocato and a length ahead of Artismo, a field horse.

At Arlington Park, Mark-Ye-Well carried Calumet Farm's colors home first in the $25,000 added Stars and Stripes handicap and tied the track record of 1:48 2-5 for a mile-and-an-eighth. Ruhe was second and Blue Choir third as Mark-Ye-Well paid $11,400. Doc Eggers won the co-feature, the $20,000 added Hyde Park for two-year-olds.

At Monmouth Park, undefeated Decathlon took the $21,900 Tyro Stakes for two-year-olds for his fifth victory and set a new track record of 1:04 flat for 5 1/2 furlongs. Decathlon paid $7,400.

At the Concordia Victory, Pauline Johnson was first in the senior women's athletics. Ed Fieberger third in the all-around track event. Barney Lee, Dismant fourth in the women's all-around. George Schmidt twelfth in the all-around gymnastics and field events.

For North St. Louis, Betty Murphy was first in the women's 100-yard dash and in the special shot put. Elmer Berch was second in the women's 100-yard dash and in the women's 100-yard dash.

Schiller's John Westermeyer was first in track and field in the 50-59-year-old age section and Louis West won the apparatus events the same age section.

Klu Hits No. 27. Art Fowler's four-hitter and Ted Kluszewski's 27th homer played important roles in Cincinnati's victory, while Gene Baker's fifth inning home run provided the Cubs with the margin of their nightcap second-game victory.

Pittsburgh won the opener from the Giants when Windy McCall and Paul Giel each walked two batters in the ninth to force home the winning run. Willie Mays' 23rd homer—his second of the day—clinched the nightcap for the Giants.

Cleveland spotted Detroit a 5-1 lead in each game and rallied to win both. Hal Naragon's pinch single in the 15th inning won the opener after Ralph Kiner had hit a homer in the eighth and a run-producing single to tie the score. Larry Doby hit two homers and Al Rosen walked a two-run blast in Cleveland's nightcap rally.

Connie Johnson, back for a second try in the majors, pitched the White Sox to a seven-hit triumph in the opener, but Hector Lopez singled home Vic Power in the eighth inning of

Three-Way Tie Is Possible in Legion League

One of the tightest races in recent years among American Legion junior baseball teams in this area will come to a climax at Heman Park this evening.

Any of four outcomes is possible, depending upon which teams are winners in the pair of games that wind up the Zera-Smith League nine-game schedule.

Going into the final session, Thomann-Boothe and Creve Coeur Posts are tied for the lead with records of 5 and 3. Pine Lawn has 4 and 4, while Oliver-Guy-Vassar has 2 and 6. Thomann-Boothe will meet Vassar and Pine Lawn plays Creve Coeur, both games at 5:45 p.m.

Either Thomann-Boothe or Creve Coeur could wind up undisputed champion, they could tie, or they and Pine Lawn could finish in a three-way deadlock.

Should there be a tie, a playoff would immediately be scheduled, for a league champion must be determined for the county playoffs next week. Kirkwood will represent the South County League in the best-of-three series at Ballwin, Mo.

Three other Legion leagues will finish their schedules, but the championships have already been decided. In addition to Kirkwood, which will play Maplewood in an 8:30 game at Ballwin, Aubuchon - Dennison and Stockham Post have already clinched league titles.

Concordia, North St. Louis beat out New York and Detroit, and Los Angeles and Toledo finished behind Schiller.

Income Taxes Make Trabert Shy From Pros

CINCINNATI, July 5 (AP)—Federal income taxes may keep Tony Trabert a tennis amateur, the Wimbledon singles champion said today.

"I have no professional plans," he confided in an interview. "I have had no offer. If someone made me a definite proposition, I would consider the pros and cons."

One factor, he said, would be the taxes he would have to pay on any lump sum from a professional contract.

The 24-year-old champion dubbed the "All-American Boy" because of his professional proficiency and his good off-the-court behavior, said he had a fine job as the West Coast representative of the American Security Bank Note Co.

"By staying an amateur, I can make the necessary business contacts for my firm, come out better financially and build a future," he explained.

If Tony can make business decisions as well as he can execute tennis strategy, the crowd youngster will make a wise choice on the pro-am question.

Tony started tennis as a boy of 6, began tournament play at 10 and set out traveling the circuit at the ripe old age of 14. Play tennis and see the world, the ex-navy man advises. He has visited Australia four times, Europe four times and various parts of the Western Hemisphere often in his tennis forays.

He won the singles title in straight sets at Wimbledon last Friday, served in an exhibition in Holland Sunday and flew home yesterday from London to play at his home court, the Cincinnati Tennis Club.

Golfer for 34 Years Makes Hole in One
Edwin Grossman of Westwood, a golfer for 34 years, joined the ranks of the game's hole-in-one shooters during the holiday weekend. Grossman, playing the Westwood course with W. H. Waldman, made a tee-to-cup shot on the 140-yard, No. 7, using an eight iron. The ball landed approximately 18 inches beyond the pin, and spun back and into the cup.

The nightcap to give Kansas City a split, Ray Moore's six-hitter and Willie Miranda's tie-breaking eighth-inning single were the key factor in the Orioles' victory over the Senators.

Indians Obtain Jim Dyck From Indianapolis

CLEVELAND, July 5 (UP)—The Cleveland Indians and Baltimore Orioles both made player changes yesterday—the Indians with the idea of winning the pennant, the Orioles with just the idea of getting out of last place.

The Indians purchased Jim Dyck, leading hitter of the American Association with a .368 average, from their Indianapolis farm club. Dyck, an infielder-outfielder, also had 17 homers and 57 runs batted in for the A.A. club.

The Orioles released unconditionally outfielder Vally Westlake and pitcher Saul Rogovin, and replaced them with two players called up from their farm system—pitcher Bob Alexander from Portland of the Pacific Coast League and first baseman Bob Hale from Fort Pa. of the Piedmont League.

Dyck, a righthanded batter, will be used as a pinch-hitter, Manager Al Lopez said. Lopez insisted he does not plan to bench slumping third baseman Al Rosen in favor of the newcomer.

Dyck will be getting his third major-league chance. Originally a member of the New York Yankee farm system, he was purchased by the St. Louis Browns in 1950 and moved up to the parent Browns in 1952.

2 NAVY AIRMEN WIN HARMON TROPHIES

Blimp Skipper, Vertical Takeoff Test Pilot Chosen for 1955 Awards.

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP)—The 1955 Harmon aviation trophies have been won by a Navy blimp commander and the test pilot for the Navy's vertical takeoff plane.

Named yesterday for "outstanding international achievements in aeronautics" were Test Pilot J. F. (Skeets) Coleman and Navy Capt. Marion H. Eppes.

Coleman, a Marine reserve Lieutenant Colonel, was cited for making more than 60 straight-up take-offs in the Navy's XFY-1 "Pogo" turbo-prop fighter built by Convair. He was also cited for making "history's first transitional flight from vertical takeoff to level flight and back down to a vertical tail-sitting landing."

In his prize-winning blimp flight, Eppes kept a Goodyear Navy Airship ZPG-2 aloft for more than eight days and cruised more than 3000 miles in a simulated anti-submarine patrol.

This flight on May 17-25, 1954, set a new world record for self-sustained, non-refueling flight by any type of aircraft.

Usually a third trophy is awarded to an outstanding aviator, but the Harmon committee said no such award would be made this year.

The awards were established in 1924 in honor of the late Clifford B. Harmon, a pioneer flyer. The winners are chosen by a committee of pilots, scientists and engineers.

SUMMER NOTE: WINTER HAS ARRIVED SOUTH OF EQUATOR

BUENOS AIRES, July 5 (UP)—Argentinians shivered in severe winter weather yesterday.

One of the coldest days of what is winter south of the Equator was recorded, with the temperature down to 31 degrees in Buenos Aires.

In the Andes mountains, along the Argentine-Chilean border, the mercury dropped to below zero. A thick blanket of snow covered the entire Andean range. Even the foothill city of Mendoza was covered with snow, which is unusual for this time of year.

He suffered a heart attack in June and had been in the hospital for about three weeks. He built the Hotel Phillips, more than 20 large apartment buildings and numerous small ones in the Country Club Plaza section of Kansas City.

SECRET MEETING BEFORE RETREAT ON DIXON-YATES

"I have no knowledge of any consultants that Mr. Dodge may have had," Strauss replied, "or whether he had any."

Most of this information was in the hands of Senator Ke-fauver, who had summoned Budget Director Hughes, himself the former controller of the National City Bank which helped arrange the insurance financing of Dixon-Yates, to an extraordinary 8 p.m. Senate investigation.

The hastily called White House meeting decided to give the President some kind of an out. So it was arranged for Gen. Herbert Vogel, newly appointed head of the Tennessee Valley Authority, to write a letter to the Budget Bureau saying that TVA would no longer have to supply power to the City of Memphis, in view of Memphis' own newly proposed city power plant; therefore, said Vogel, TVA would not need Dixon-Yates power.

Actually, this was not new. Last November, the City of Memphis testified before the SEC, with an AEC representative present, that it would not take power from Dixon-Yates.

On May 18, Mayor Frank Tobey of Memphis wrote Gen. Vogel that the city would not take the Dixon-Yates power.

Thus the facts had been known for months. However, Vogel wrote Budget Director Hughes the letter he needed to give President Eisenhower a chance to get off the worst political hook he has been on since entering the White House.

The President was summoned off the golf course and his statement was issued at 7 p.m. Just in time to call off the Ke-fauver investigation.

Senators who voted for Dixon-Yates behind closed doors in the Senate Appropriations subcommittee were Democrats Ellender of Louisiana, Robertson of Virginia, and McClellan of Arkansas.

Two Republicans who usually vote against the power companies did not do so on this vote. They were Mundt of South Dakota and Thyne of Minnesota, who voted for Dixon-Yates.

It was not surprising that Saltonstall of Massachusetts, Smith of Maine, Dworshak of Idaho and Knowland of California voted for Dixon-Yates.

Senators who voted against Dixon-Yates were Senators Hill of Alabama, Hayden of Arizona, happened before—certainly not in Red Square.

The next night, an even finer party had obviously been anticipated. The word had got round that dancing in the dawn in Red Square was the thing to do, and by midnight there were long lines of teen-agers tramping up the hill past the Kremlin. A small knot of boys even lugged the heavy instruments of a brass band up the hill, and set them up in front of the tomb.

Police Wet Blankets.

Somebody in authority had presumably decided that the thing had gone too far. The night before, there had been no security police. Now there were a good many. They moved quietly and politely through the crowd, playing the role of wet blankets with splendid efficiency. Little groups hung on till daylight, but the heat had gone out of the party. Without playing a note, members of the band sadly lugged their instruments down the hill again.

Yet there were surprises on this less happy second night as well. A long line of boys and girls were sitting on a low wall near the tomb, giggling. A young cop walked along the line, gesturing to them to stand up. The boys and girls stood up, one by one, with exaggerated smartness, as he came up to them—and then sat down again, laughing fit to kill, the moment he had passed.

When an older, tougher cop showed up, looking grim, they got off the wall for good. Even so, one of the older boys made an uncomplimentary gesture, familiar in Brooklyn, at the cop.

Does this mean a change? Old Moscow hands say that this sort of thing simply did not happen, even a short time ago. So perhaps there has been a change in the relationship between rulers and ruled. But the old Moscow hands are sure that the change will not, and cannot, be permitted to go very deep.

JOHNSON BOOM STALLED BY HEART ATTACK

coming along on schedule and was given a push last week when he engaged President Eisenhower in a partisan skirmish. Suddenly, he must retire from active duty for awhile and his bandwagon is stalled thereby.

Hard, Grinding Work.

The majority leader's illness shows again that Congress for a conscientious member is hard, grinding work. It is true that the routine is such that the lazy and indifferent can achieve ease, but it is at the expense of responsible colleagues.

Senators have found that the administrative assistants from whom much was hoped are not acceptable to the public as a substitute for Senators. The traveling American, that phenomenon of present prosperity, comes to Washington in never-ending streams and—very naturally—he wants to see the man he voted for. Big government means more work, too, for members both in committee and in contacts with departments and agencies.

On one point, all members seem to agree. That is, that their numbers should not be increased. The Capitol itself has been bulging for a long time and there are plans to enlarge it. The Senate has a new office building in construction. The solution for their work loads, members insist, must rest on the basis that Congress is big enough already.

Circa-Rama

Well-Rounded Ideas
On 360-Degree Screen

By Myles Standish

NEWS REACHES ME via a Hollywood spy (well, anyway, in a dispatch from U.P. correspondent Aline Mosby) that mankind has taken one more step in its quest for fiendish inventions to destroy itself. I am referring to the ultimate in wide screens which Walt Disney has just unveiled at his Disneyland. It is a completely round, 360-degree screen which encircles the audience. Now the madness which started with Cinemascope and extended to Cinemascope, VistaVision and Todd-AO has really gone too far. The only thing left is to extend the screen to the dome of the theater, too. Something tells me

Disney is working on it. Circa-Rama, they call the new thing. Or "Roundies." It is in a specially built round theater. The first exhibit is a 15-minute travelogue about a drive from Hollywood to Las Vegas. It is only 15 minutes long because that is all anybody can stand, so far. The epidemic of stiff necks and personality splits that resulted from the first gulinea-pig bunch of spectators trying to see in front of them and back of them at the same time was too alarming.

The viewers tried standing in the center of the theater and twirling around, but soon got dizzy. Some tried standing back to back and exchanging reports between partners on what was going on, but that made too much of a babel. Swivel chairs seemed to be the solution. But, no. They had tried them, and the spectators got even dizzier.

OBVIOUSLY, this new device, which would make taking in a five-ring circus easy by comparison, is going to impose some hardships on me in my profession as a movie critic. I never thought, when I entered the field, that some day I'd have to be a Whirling Dervish to hold my job, or pirouette around like a perpetual-motion ballerina. Prospects are, with seeing two or three movies in a day, I would wind up with my neck in a crutch. I might appeal to the Disney boys to go further with their inventions, and make me a new neck that revolves on a ball-bearing disc, but I doubt if even they could manage it.

I can see myself coming home nights, reeling from dizziness.

"Have a hard day at the theater, dear?" murmurs my wife sympathetically. She knows it is from dizziness.

"Oh, it's nothing," I shrug bravely. "But if only my head would stop spinning."

IT WAS BAD ENOUGH getting that back-and-forth wobble, like a man who has watched too many tennis matches, from trying to take in both sides of the Cinemascope screens as wide as the movie houses, and having stereophonic sound sneak up in back of you. Theaters-in-the-round should have given some warning as to what was to come. But even there the audience surrounded the show. Now the show surrounds the audience.

I am looking forward now (and wincing) to the first critic who says the plot of a certain Circa-Rama movie never gets anywhere because it goes round in circles. And I can see a rash of horse-racing and auto-racing plots. The medium is ideal. It also would make for ideal family pictures. Each member of the family could face a different direction, and they could all compare notes and get the complete story over their after-the-show ice cream sodas.

The ramifications—that's a 360-degree word—are many. Miss Mosby reported the Disney theater was considering sending seakiness pills disguised as peanuts. And you could get revenge on that guy back of you who drops popcorn down your neck. Do the same to him when you're both facing the other way.

THE DISNEY PEOPLE say this new screen isn't intended for normal theaters. "Strictly a novelty," they laugh lightly. "We'll just use it for travelogues and special acts." But I have me some dire forebodings it will get out of hand.

If you're interested in science, the round movie was made by interlocking 11 cameras in a circle and mounting them on top of a car, with the cameramen working underneath. The 11 strips of film are projected by 11 projectors on 11 screens arranged in a circle. Needless to say, the projectors have to be synchronized like a Swiss watch.

If they do go in for drama in the round medium, it occurs to me a perfect film would be "La Ronde," the French movie which traced 10 amorous affairs, with the last winding up where the first started, and concluded love is a merry-go-round.

That the box-office values in the new screen would be similar to the present ones was indicated at the Disney preview of the roundies. When a brunette in a polka-dot bikini suit was shown walking by a Las Vegas swimming pool, the head of every male in the audience, to a man, followed her all around the screen. To the last 360th degree.

Moral: Movie screens may change, but Marilyn Monroe won't have to.

Tips for Teens

By Elinor Williams

WHAT'S THE BEST WAY to get a job—summer or part-time?

There's plenty of advice to teenagers on how to look when you apply for a job—neat, clean, alert, etc. Some hints even suggest that girls wear shoes instead of loafers, stockings, hats and gloves . . . and that boys wear a suit, complete with shirt and tie for the job interview.

Your appearance IS important, but it's not the whole thing, by any means. Two other qualifications are very essential . . . and many employers complain that these two vital qualities are often lacking in high schoolers.

WHAT ARE THEY? Interest in the job and willingness to work.

You can't do a good, satisfactory job unless you take a real interest in the work . . . and have enough pride and honor in your work to do the very best you can, instead of considering the job merely a way to pass the time and put extra money in your pocket.

And you're not real help on the job . . . not fully earning the money you're paid . . . unless you're willing to work instead of watching the clock, taking long coffee-breaks, long lunch hours and doing as little work as possible.

HOW CAN YOU SHOW INTEREST and willingness to work? By thinking more about the work than about time off, holidays; more about what you can put into the job than what it will do for you. Remember, you'll want a recommendation from your employer, some day.

It's as simple as this. You expect to be paid each week. Your employer expects you to earn the money. You're on your honor to do your part just as much as he is.

Tip from Champ No-Tipper

A Tight-fisted Approach to Money Problem

By Phyllis Battelle

NEW YORK, July 5 (INS)

THE business of knowing how much to tip is a science; but knowing how never to tip—that, fellow spenders, is an art! The Michelangelo of this money-saving set is a man we shall call "C. N." because those are not his initials. There are some vicious waiters lurking around New York who might recognize him by his real initials.

"I have saved approximately $2000 annually for the past four years," he says, "by avoiding this frightfully cruel and costly system of financial demise and synthetic Samaritanism called tipping."

C. N.'s system for not tipping has complexities, but basically, he insists, it is simple in concept. "First of all, one must be dedicated to the task at hand," he says. "One must be able to penetrate the facade of our tip-diddy culture and see that it is leading to only one catastrophic end—the return of the ancient feudal system, in which there are masters and slaves."

Soberly, C. N. withdrew a quarter from his imported worsted vest pocket and held it to the light.

"Monstrous!" he remarked, "what havoc this slender disc hath wrought!"

Mrs. C. N., sitting beside him, spoke out: "Easy, dearie, don't overdo."

Eying her coolly, ("She saves less than $500 a year," he sighs, "poor planning"). He continued: "Realizing what harm tipping can do, then, it becomes easy for one to look at the tip and think, 'If I give money to this good man, who is in every way my equal in the eyes of heaven, it will only make him feel like a slave. I shall not subserviate him!'"

This makes a lot of would-be subversives mad, but, as C. N. points out, it is all for their own good so his conscience is clear.

"Naturally," he says "for the sake of those tippees who look as if they will neither understand my concept, nor be grateful for it, I have certain rules of procedure."

THIS GOOD MAN IS MY EQUAL—IT WILL MAKE HIM FEEL LIKE A SLAVE IF I TIP HIM.

FOR example: When a waiter, untipped, holds out his hand—C. N. presses it warmly in both his own and says "thank you for excellent service. I always longed to be a waiter myself, but simply could never make the grade."

When a cab driver, untipped, bawls "Hey, you—where's my tip?" C. N. returns to the car and says, "I hate to interrupt but it was such a delightful ride. Let's not let it end this way."

tainly glad you didn't put gas in it, my boy. I ate like a gourmand and haven't a spot of change left."

When a barber, valet or other personal grooming expert gives C. N. a quizzical look, C. N. assumes an air of mild panic.

"Good heavens, man, did you make a mistake on my hair (or shirt or shoes or shave)?" He glances at his watch. "Well, never mind," he says, quickly turning on his heel. "There's no time for amends now."

"You see how easy, and how basically right, this is?" he asked. "After all, a quarter saved is a quarter earned; and when you can earn money and save America from creeping feudalism in one clever gesture . . . well, it's smart humanitarianism."

"That," he added, "is my tip to you."

Your Money

SELLING your house. These simple tips by realtor's wife in Town Journal are often overlooked. If possible put it on market six months before you must move; empty house is harder to sell.

Fix up the place to fill ceiling cracks, refinish wood floors, paint soiled walls. Bathroom is especially important. Replace old fixtures. Repaint.

If necessary, but avoid strong colors; buyers usually prefer "harmonizing tints of lighter hues" in bath. Hide any broken-down furniture, slipcover worn upholstery. Rundown pieces make house seem rundown.

Barrier Cream: If you're sensitive to poison dye or to irritants in gardening and materials, paints and varnishes, glues, hair dyes, or photographic developing solutions, a new cream, may help. Easily and economically applied, non-staining and greaseless, it forms an invisible protective barrier around the skin. Developed for use in industry, now available for home use, it has proved effective in protecting against other irritants as well, including those found in soaps and detergents, furniture waxes and polishes, disinfectants, bleaches and cleaning fluids.

Stretch Shoelaces: Once in place, they never come unlaced, need no retying. Which makes them a convenience for all and especially for children, the aged and the physically handicapped. Made in one length for all men's, women's and children's shoes, they're easy to install, adjust to the feet, give comfort with each step. They allow shoes to be slipped on and off like bedroom slippers yet give adequate support and neat appearance. They come in black, brown and white, cost 50 cents a pair.

MRS. W. C. "My living room and dining room form an L-shape. There are two sets of double windows in the dining room, and three sets plus a single window in the living room. The windows are 24½ inches from the ceiling, and 27 inches from the floor. Would cornice boards look good in these rooms?"

There's no reason that cornice boards wouldn't look good, and they can be used to make the windows look taller. For this purpose, set them higher than the actual window frames and make them deep enough to cover the top of the frames.

Calamine is water soluble and washes off. Your trouble must be that oil base paint was applied to a calaminized surface; and although there is a special kind that sticks to calamine, most oil paints won't. Scraping is necessary, and use a flexible scraper, which will make the job easier than a rigid one. Also remove what you can with washing, and finish with a thorough washing. Prepare for the new paint with a coat of sealer.

Handkerchief Curtains

BRIDGE PRIZES kitchen towels can be used in the same way, and the proud owner of a new pink kitchen adds another possibility. Because sheets and pillowcases come in beautiful percale in the exact shade of pink she wanted, she used pillowcases for curtains. She ripped side seams and turned back narrow hems for a finish, leaving the neat wide hems already in the cases for the bottom hems of the curtains. All of these ideas make sure that curtains couldn't be easier to keep fresh. They take endless washings perfectly, and iron flat.

My Day

We Leave
Cool Country
For Hot City

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK.

AT 7:30 Thursday morning my son, John, and I drove down to New York. It was lovely and cool in the country, but as we neared the city it began to get warmer and warmer, and I became more and more conscious of the fact that the summer was upon us. I spent an hour at the dentist, visited a travel agency in preparation for going out to the meeting of the World Federation of the United Nations Association, and I was anxious to make their association more effective, and I hope we shall see some of their representatives at the World Federation meeting.

From lunch I went directly to the American Association office to keep an appointment with a young high school boy who had written me that he thought he had the answer to juvenile delinquency. That seemed to denote so much self-confidence that I decided to give him an appointment.

THE BOY LIVES IN MOUNT VERNON, N.Y., and his remedy was simple. Boys only got into trouble, he felt, when they did not have enough to do. So he had organized a Boy Scout troop, found a leader for them, and was busy devising constant activities. He wanted to know what I could suggest that they could do for the U.N. The Children's Fund is quite evidently the best interest for young people, and the Halloween "trick and treat" program certainly does provide one evening, at least, of constructive fun.

This occasion has been used frequently for vandalism rather than help to the community; now it can help the larger community of the children of the world. My young man had already been to UNICEF, and already knew about the Halloween program and was going to put it into effect. But that wasn't enough, and I am afraid I was very inadequate in helping to promote his ideas. I had to promise to bear his request in mind, since I could give him no concrete suggestions.

ONE OF OUR STAFF MEMBERS, Miss Estelle Linzer, who has been abroad visiting the U.N. associations in Europe, gave us an excellent report during the afternoon. On reaching home I found that mail and various little details that had come up filled the rest of my time in town.

I was barely ready to leave when Johnny visited me. He arrived just after 10:30, having finished an appearance on a broadcast.

The Modern Age Medical Living

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, July 5 (AP).

MOST NEW HOUSES being built today have a recreation room. What they really need is a medicine room.

Every home is a small drug store. It overflows with scores of tubes and bottles and jars of medicaments, lotions and cosmetics which the average human being now feels he needs to keep himself physically fit and socially acceptable.

The American people never have been more healthy—and never have taken more medicine. Some people now get their main exercise simply by the muscular effort expended in taking the medicines to keep themselves feeling well—or applying the toiletry aids which they hope will make them look more attractive.

A MAN'S SOCIAL STATUS today is judged as much by the diseases he boasts as by his bank account. You never can be sure how far he really has risen in the world until you get a peek into his bathroom medicine cabinet.

The trouble is that no medicine cabinet is large enough any longer to hold the jumbled drug hoards of a civilized family.

I can remember as a boy when the old-fashioned small bathroom medicine cabinet in our home was quite ample. It held a jar of Vaseline, a tube of toothpaste, a box of baking soda, a razor, a cake of shaving soap, a bottle of iodine, a package of absorbent cotton, a can of talcum, a roll of gauze and some adhesive tape. Oh, yes, and some boric acid solution and a small tin of aspirin tablets.

THIS SMALL STOCK served the health needs of a family of seven. It enabled one to bandage a cut or ease a headache. But in those simple days, when you got your vitamins from groceries instead of from a druggist, health was taken as a matter of fact. It hadn't become either a hobby or an industry. You didn't worry yourself sick over the question of whether you were healthy.

Today the ordinary home contains enough medical and toiletry supplies to furnish the clinic of a generation ago. The other day I opened my crowded medicine cabinet. A bottle of scalp lotion I bought in London in 1944 tumbled out and bruised my head. (The British druggist had assured me it was "good for falling hair" and it was: Every time I applied it the falling hair fell out faster.)

"WHERE'S THE LINIMENT?" I called to my wife, rubbing the bump on my forehead.

Well, after a long search, she finally found it in the medicine cabinet in HER bathroom, hidden behind a jar of face cream and the eye lotion guaranteed to relieve TV optical fatigue.

That illustrates another peril of having medicine diffused all over the place. A fellow, stricken by a real emergency, could crawl from room to room, pawing through bottle after bottle, and die without finding the one he needed—particularly if his wife weren't there to help him.

IN BRINGING THE DRUG STORE into the home we have only gone half way. What we need now is a full-size room specially built to give everything from throat lozenges to high-fidelity vitamins and true-blue skin hormone creams exactly the right living conditions they should have.

The final step, of course, will be to staff the room with a professional pharmacist and an interne, and provide living quarters in your house for them, too.

Then a man can reasonably expect to stay healthy at home, independent of either hospital or drug store.

The Starting Point

By Glen R. Shepherd, M.D.

WHY NOT BEGIN your vacation when you close your front door rather than when you arrive at the resort or camp? If you begin it the moment you leave home, you'll have an easier, and safer trip.

Why? Because you won't be straining on the drive to your vacation spot. You won't try a nonstop driving rush. You'll take it slower and easier on the trip. You'll make frequent stops, which will rest you and prevent dangerous driving fatigue. You'll drive shorter hours, spending the night at some place of historical or scenic interest. You'll arrive refreshed. Best of all, you'll arrive. You won't have driven long hours, become fatigued, and had a fatal accident on the way.

ABOUT THREE-FIFTHS OF HIGHWAY ACCIDENTS come from driver fatigue, drowsiness and actually falling asleep, according to safety experts. Speeding also is an important cause.

You know from experience your tendency to become sleepy as you drive mile after mile, hour after hour, on a warm sunny day. You may even have scared yourself once or twice by jerking awake after you had edged over the center line into the path of an oncoming car and just barely managed to get back in your own lane in time.

Even if you aren't killed by a vacation accident, it can ruin the vacation for you and your whole family. Miles or even states away from home, you'll be dealing with strangers: garage men, physicians, lawyers, and police. And injuries may require a long stay at the local hospital, far from family and relatives.

WHY COURT DISASTER? You can protect yourself by beginning your vacation the moment you lock the front door and get in the car. You can do it by setting reasonable driving schedules.

Better still don't set a schedule at all. With good motels and hotels throughout the country, you no longer need to make advance arrangements for a night's stop. You can just mosey along, stopping here and there for a cold soda and a leg stretch, and a nice view of an historical site. You'll enjoy it more. Your family will be more relaxed and get more fun from the trip.

I think the best cross-country auto trip is just that kind: without a definite distance to drive in a day and with frequent stops. Whenever I drive, I stop about every hour for a few minutes to get out of the car, for a cup of coffee or a soda and inquire about the road and about points of interest.

THEN, IT ISN'T AS HARD ON MYSELF or on the car. The frequent rest stops insure my being awake and alert all the time I am behind the wheel.

I like to stop for the day fairly early and certainly before it gets dark. Night driving is much more dangerous than driving in the daytime. Stopping for the night by four or five in the afternoon insures your finding good accommodations rather than seeing the "No Vacancy" sign out that force you to drive on and on.

Improved Morale Inside Prison Walls

Inmates at Missouri Penitentiary
Receiving Better Prepared Meals
And Additional Time for Recreation

WARDEN RALPH N. EIDSON... HE'S LOOKING AROUND FOR SOME-ONE TO FILL THE JOB OF A FULL-TIME RECREATION DIRECTOR.

By Dickson Terry
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

RALPH N. EIDSON, warden of the Missouri State Penitentiary, is a slim man of medium height whose light brown hair is getting a little gray around the temples. He is 47 years old, dresses conservatively in tan palm beach and wears glasses with horn rims across the top and rimless below. He speaks slowly, measuring his words, and he bears little resemblance to the popular conception of a prison warden.

Eidson has been warden of Jefferson City since 1947. He was born on a farm in Camden county and raised there, and he can still milk a cow, a prowess he demonstrated recently in a milking contest with some other prominent men of Jefferson City for a charity benefit. He worked as a highway patrolman for a number of years, then was borrowed from the patrol in 1947 to set up the permanent registration program of the Motor Vehicle Department, a program which he headed until 1949, when he was again borrowed, this time by the governor, to be warden at the penitentiary.

Since the resignation of Thomas E. Whitcomb as state Director of Corrections following the prison riots of last fall, Eidson has been holding that job also, on a temporary basis. In his dual role of warden and director, he has been credited with having materially improved the state of morale inside the prison walls.

Some of the things Eidson has done have been on the recommendation of legislative committee and various prison experts who investigated conditions after last year's riots, but even those things, Eidson says, merely coincided with ideas he had held for a long time about how a prison should be run.

An improved guard system, for instance, which is scheduled to go into effect this month. "One of the things I've wanted to do ever since I've been here," says Eidson, "is set up a custodial system with a proper chain of command. And now we're going to do it."

Under the old system the custodial force started out with the warden, deputy warden and assistant deputy warden, the yardmaster. The next step in rank dropped clear down to guard. There were supposed to be two grades of guards, one and two, and when a man advanced from number-one guard to number-two guard he was supposed to get a raise in pay. But the budget was always too slim to grant any pay increases, so all the guards remained at one level. The pay for a guard was $154 a month and one meal a day, which figures out at about $38 a week which explains why the jobs were not eagerly sought.

Under the new system there will be a direct chain of command. The prisoners are getting quite a bit more recreation than they used to because, since they burned down most of the prison shops, there's no work for them to do.

So, instead of keeping them locked in their cells all day, they are allowed to spend an hour or so every day in the yard. In the future, however, Eidson says, they will have more recreation time than in the past, probably an hour a day, with two or three hours on Saturdays and Sundays.

But the real answer, Eidson feels, lies in organized recreation, as opposed to just standing around or sitting around in the yard. In the past the prisoners had a part-time recreation director who worked on a volunteer basis, and no equipment. Eidson is now looking for a qualified, full-time recreation director, one who will develop a good recreation program of "intra-mural" wrestling, boxing, softball, baseball and volleyball.

Perhaps the most notable improvement at the prison, and the one which has made the greatest contribution to better morale, is the food. Eidson is a man who believes that if a prisoner has a full stomach he is likely to be at peace with the world and his fellow men.

The food was one of the chief complaints of the prisoners after both riots last fall, and the investigating committees found that they were justified.

The fault lay not with the food itself, Eidson says, but in its preparation. The penitentiary farms produce fresh meat and vegetables, and those vegetables which aren't eaten during the growing season are canned at the prison canning factory. In a good year the prison will can as much as 75,000 gallons of tomatoes, spinach, beans, beets and carrots. The prison farms grow hogs and cattle to provide fresh pork and beef the year around.

The trouble, Eidson said, lay in the fact that the food was being cooked without imagination or variety. The meals were unappetizing and the menu was monotonous. It followed a pattern, and the men knew from day to day, and meal to meal, what was coming up next.

The first thing Eidson did was bring in Walter Jordan, who was assistant deputy warden at one of the prison farms, where he had charge of food preparation. Jordan, a former St. Louisan, first learned mass food preparation in his teens when he was in charge of the mess at a CCC camp. In the Army during the war, he spent another three years as mess sergeant where he learned a lot about what men like and don't like, and how to make food appetizing.

Jordan, a large man with a stately corpulence which indicates an appreciation of good food, eats the prison fare himself, which, after all, is the final test.

"We had plenty of good food," Jordan explained. "The trouble was in the preparation and choice. One of the first things I did was watch the left-overs for a few days to find out the things the men won't eat. One of the things they won't eat is spinach. And they don't care much for beets. If you feed them stuff they don't like most of it goes to waste. The amount of food wasted every day was terrific, simply because the men were getting things they didn't like."

What do they like? "Men in prison are just like men everywhere," Jordan said. They like meat and potatoes and gravy, and despite all the jokes on the subject, they like beans. Then they like some kind of dessert."

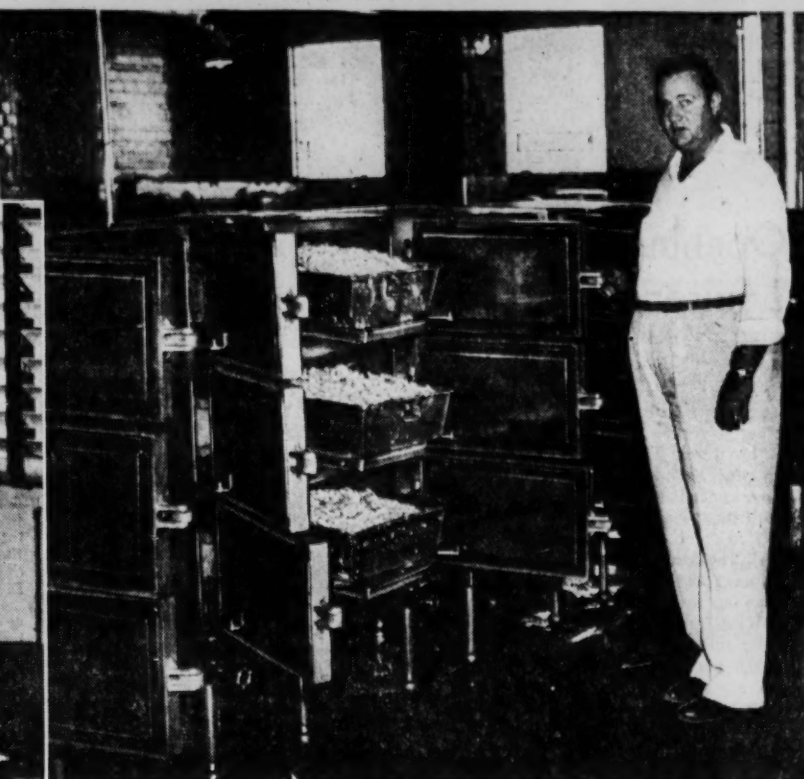

It was just before noon as we sat talking in Jordan's small office just off the prison kitchen. "Would you like to try today's lunch?" he asked. "I think you'll be surprised."

A prisoner brought in a steel plate. On it were two fat frankfurters cooked with a large helping of sauerkraut, mashed potatoes, fresh green onions and green beans. There was a generous supply of margarine and two thick slices of bread. It was all good, well-cooked food, but the bread merits especial mention.

The prison bakery makes its own bread, and it tastes like old-fashioned homemade bread. They also make their own cookies now, since Jordan discovered that whereas they used to pay $140 for 10,000 cookies (which is how many it takes with three cookies to a man) they can bake 10,000 cookies for $71, and they're better cookies. We know because we ate some, fresh out of the oven.

Cooking for a prison is house-keeping on a large scale. A day-to-day record is kept of how many men are in the institution, and that day Jordan and his 100 helpers were turning out food for 2706 men. This, of course, includes only the men in the big house, and not those on prison farms.

The bakery turns out around 1500 loaves of bread a day, and each loaf weighs 29 ounces. The batch of 10,000 cookies lasts through one meal. I take 1000 pounds of hot dogs and 400 pounds of baked beans for one meal. The men in the kitchen were peeling and cutting up potatoes to make creamed potatoes for the evening meal. It took three barrels of potatoes.

Contract Bridge

THE next time your partner utters the classic remark, "I couldn't open the bidding—I had only 10 (or 11 or 12) points," take a good look at this hand. Or perhaps it would be better (or at any rate less provocative) to take another look at your own hand after you have uttered the same words.

The unfortunate truth is that about half the point-counters in the United States are using point-count only half correctly. They count only their aces, kings, queens and jacks. They either ignore or forget about the vital factor of distribution. Thus, it is of no consequence to them whether they pick up the first or the second of these holdings:

AKJ86 ♠52 ♦K87 ♣765
AKJ86 ♠52 ♦K87 ♣76

Both hands (the uninitiated will say) count only 11 points—not enough for a sound bid.

They are mistaken. The first hand counts 12 points—11 in high cards and one for the fifth spade, the suit to be named.

The second hand counts 13 points—11 in high cards, one for the fifth trump, and one for the four-card length in a side suit.

Whether or not you elect to open 12-point hands is largely a matter of temperament and partnership understanding, but the line between opening and passing has to be drawn somewhere, and this is a good place to draw it. Open 13-point hands with rebiddable suits.

The following deal, taken from a duplicate game, is worth considering.

♠Q10 ♠K954 ♠K10432 ♠108
♠Q97 ♠QJ7 ♠AJ865 ♠Q92
♠Q97 ♠KJ65

Four of the South players opened with one spade, and two of them ended up in game, making it. The other two collected part-scores.

The four other Souths passed, and the auction proceeded: pass, pass, pass.

"We stopped by a table where a man was on his second plate of frankfurters, sauerkraut, potatoes and green beans, and asked him what he thought of the food. He stepped out into the aisle and stuck out his stomach and patted it proudly. "I weighed 157 last winter," he grinned. "Now I weigh 178."

Let's Explore Your Mind

By Dr. Albert E. Wiggam

1. WORK EXPERIENCES OUTSIDE SCHOOL MAKE PUPILS BETTER ADJUSTED CITIZENS. YOUR OPINION

Answer to Question 1. PSYCHOLOGIST RICHARD M. BATEMAN compared working and non-working high-school boys and girls on the Bell Adjustment Inventory which is believed to indicate differences in home, health, social and emotional adjustment. Results showed working boys and girls more poorly adjusted than nonworkers in these life areas. A study by Michaelis and Howard of the California Schools indicated that perhaps we don't know how to develop personality in schools and that home, parents, church, business men, and society must all combine to do this job.

Answer to Question 2. True. Every child should have a definite allowance, say Hark and McQueen, in their life adjustment booklet. Peter's mother thought she could not afford to give Peter an allowance, but later she added up the pennies and nickels she usually gave him and found it came to 35 cents a week. So, she gave him this amount as an allowance. This put Peter on his own. Hit-and-miss handouts keep children from learning responsibility.

Answer to Question 3. Probably yes. For reasons unknown, some person's IQs go up or down 10 or 15 points. Some had supposed the increase or decline was more in, say, arithmetic or vocabulary or general reasoning. However, a study by psychologists Baker and Sontag could find no differences. If the IQ went up or down, the gain or loss was practically the same in all abilities. Indicating the IQ probably measures "general intelligence" rather than particular abilities.

New York Movie Opening Attended by St. Louisans

By Martha Strickler Kieffer

NEW YORK, July 5.

NEW YORK society and stage and screen personalities were well represented last Wednesday night at the opening performance of the movie, "The Seven Little Foys." A tremendous crowd—the women elegantly dressed in summer cocktail gowns and "small furs"—jammed Broadway in front of the Criterion Theater until curtain time at 8:30. Proceeds from this first night went to the United Cerebral Palsy fund.

MISS CATHERINE KINGSLAND PEPER, DEBUTANTE DAUGHTER OF MR. AND MRS. CHRISTIAN BAIRD PEPER, PHOTOGRAPHED AT HER COMING-OUT PARTY, DANCE JUNE 22 AT OLD WARSON COUNTRY CLUB.

After the show guests went to the nearby Sheraton-Astor Hotel for a champagne supper. Guest of honor was BOB HOPE, star of the film, who received a humanitarian award in recognition of his service to cerebral palsy victims.

Chairman of the event was GEN. JAMES H. DOOLITTLE, who with his family used to live in St. Louis. RUTH PRATT, a St. Louis debutante of 1947, was a committee member.

Ruthie has been in New York and active in the dramatic field for several years. She has an apartment on East 75th street, to which she has recently returned after a two-month vacation in Europe.

Her European itinerary included stops in Paris, Rome and London, after which she went to Cairo. She spent several weeks at this last port visiting with her brother-in-law and sister, MR. AND MRS. KENNETH F. P. LOVE (Felicite Pratt). Kenny and Felicite and their four children left New York two years ago for Egypt where Kenny is a roving foreign correspondent for the New York Times.

St. Louisans at Art Exhibit

KENNY'S sisters, DEBORAH LOVE and CYNTHIA LOVE BROOKS, were seen last week at the Museum of Modern Art taking a peek at the current "Textiles and Ornamental Arts From India" exhibit. Later they went up to the fifth floor for luncheon in the patio overlooking the museum's gardens and permanent sculpture collection.

MISS LOVE... NEW YORK VISITOR.

Arriving in New York last week, Debby stayed at the Park Chambers for a few days and then transferred her suitcases to Ruth Pratt's apartment. She will remain here for six weeks studying dramatics at the Neighborhood School summer session.

In mid-August, Debby will go to Stratford, Conn., to study at the academy and theater of the American Shakespeare Festival. Opening Aug. 12 for its first year, the festival will be presented annually and patterned after similar festivals in Canada and England. "Julius Caesar" and "The Tempest" will be offered during alternating weeks until Sept. 6.

At Fashionable Spring Lake Wedding

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK P. BOSWELL and MR. AND MRS. JOEL Y. LUND were among the 500 guests in Spring Lake June 25 when DIANE CARROLL JONES became MRS. NORWOOD NORFLEET. In a deluge of rain the wedding party adjourned from St. Andrews Methodist Church to the lavish Oakes estate where a marquee aided in saving the day for the reception.

The Lunds drove over to Spring Lake from Bay Head, where they have leased a cottage for the summer months. Having packed suitcases seven times within the past few weeks for trips to St. Louis, White Sulphur Springs, New Orleans and Poughkeepsie, Mr. and Mrs. Lund are anticipating a summer of rest and quiet.

Their trip to Poughkeepsie was for Vassar commencement at which their elder daughter, ERLE, received her diploma. At the moment Erle is in Boston for a former roommate's wedding, but she will spend the rest of the summer at Bay Head. The Lunds' younger daughter, SARAH, will return East shortly after attending debut parties at Grosse Pointe, Mich.

Sarah, who has just completed her sophomore studies at Vassar, will make her debut in St. Louis in the winter season. She will be presented at a dinner dance Dec. 23 at the St. Louis Woman's Club preceding TOLIE WALLACE'S ball. Mr. and Mrs. Lund, Sarah and Erle will all return to St. Louis in late August, to be there until after the Veiled Prophet ball in October.

Party in Honor of Schlueter Sisters.

DEBUTANTES and their beaux received invitations resembling fire crackers for a "sizzle and swizzle brunch" given Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. Otto S. Conrades, 16 Picardy lane, Ladue, and their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald F. Wilson, 1349 McCutcheon road, Richmond Heights, honoring Miss Joan and Miss Barbara Schlueter, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. Newell Schlueter, 2 Litzinger lane, Ladue.

Miss Joan Schlueter is a debutante of the 1954-55 season. Her sister is on the list for the season beginning in September.

The party was given at the Conrades home. Guests, invited for 12:30 o'clock, were served from a buffet table decorated in a Fourth of July theme. They were seated at small tables on the lawn.

Young women attending were Miss Georgia Kurrus, Miss Kathryn Brownlee, Miss Eleanor Rowland, Miss Elizabeth McDonald, Miss Mary Park, Miss Jean Alexander, Miss Mary Keth, Miss Barbara Burton, Miss Judy Olin, Miss Sarah Lund, Miss Sonja Wotka, Miss Alice Hager, Miss Ann McCarthy and Miss Alice Reynolds.

Mrs. William M. Sherrill, 167 South Elm avenue, Webster Groves, and her entire family have returned from a motor trip south. Mrs. Sherrill was accompanied by her sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Wichman and Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Reed, and their respective children, William Sherrill and George Randolph Wichman and Ann Gordon Reed. The group occupied apartments in Daytona Beach, Fla., and returned by way of Panama City, Fla., and Gulf Coast resorts.

Barbara Nixon Is Honored at Garden Party

MISS BARBARA ELLEN NIXON, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Williams Nixon of Alton, was guest of honor Sunday night at a terrace supper given by her parents and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Middleton Lewis, at the Lewis home, 9 Wydown terrace. Contemporaries of Miss Nixon were invited to the party.

A dwarf Japanese cherry tree on the terrace was decorated with pink roses to form a setting for the receiving line. Greeting the guests were Mrs. Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Nixon, the debutante, and her house-guest, Miss Ann Keeley, who lives in California and attends Bennett Junior College with Miss Nixon.

Pink cloths covered the small supper tables placed on the terrace and lawn and lighted softly. Hurricane lamps and pink roses provided centerpieces and a trio of musicians played for the guests.

Miss Nixon wore a white silk organza gown embroidered with pink flowers and fashioned with a cap-sleeved, fitted bodice and short bouffant skirt. She held a colonial bouquet of pink roses. Mrs. Nixon, the former Louise Lewis, wore a terrace-length pink and white checked gingham dress ornamented with diamond-shaped insets of which organza. Mrs. Lewis chose a cream-colored Italian silk gown with a hand crocheted skirt.

Miss Nixon, who was graduated from the Madeira School, Greenway, Va., before entering Bennett will return to the college in the autumn for her sophomore year.

Four St. Louis school teachers, who were graduated together from Webster College a year ago, are climaxed their first year of teaching with a trip to Europe. They left St. Louis June 21 by plane and will be away two months. They are Miss Juliene O'Toole, daughter of the Joseph E. O'Toole, 1245 Orchard avenue, kindergarten teacher at Central School, Ferguson; Miss Arlene Schutt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Schutt, 742 North Elizabeth avenue, Ferguson, who teaches at Griffith School there; Miss Helen O'Brien, daughter of Mrs. Helen M. O'Brien, 5318 Gladstone avenue, also a teacher at Central School, and Miss Rose Craft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Craft, 4600 Donovan avenue, who teaches English and French at Nerinx Hall.

MR. AND MRS. JOHN B. REINHART JR., 31 Algonquin Woods, accompanied by their youngest daughter, Jean, will depart in a few days for Ontario, to spend a month at various resorts.

Their oldest daughter, Miss Betsy Reinhart, a student at Washington University, is spending the summer at Minne Wonka Lodge, Three Lakes, Wis. Miss Nancy Reinhart, who was graduated last month from John Burroughs School, is a counselor at Camp Zoe, Salem, Mo., for the summer. She will matriculate at Iowa State College, Ames, in September.

Mrs. Reinhart's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Davis, 238 West Washington avenue, Kirkwood, recently returned home from a three-month tour of Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen E. Chamberlin, 80 Cornelia avenue, Glendale, returned home last week after a several-month tour of Europe. En route home they visited their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Ervin Jr., in Detroit.

While the Chamberlins were away, their home was occupied by Mrs. Ervin Sr. Mrs. Ervin has departed for a six-weeks' motor trip east with Mrs. Bay and I. Taber, 319 South Gore avenue, the latter's sister, Mrs. Truman Morrison of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Frank Irwin, Florence, Ala.

The travelers will tour eastern Canada, including the Gaspé Peninsula and Nova Scotia, as well as the New England states. Mrs. Ervin expects to arrive in Bronxville, N.Y., Aug. 1. She will live there at the Grammatan Hotel until she finds an apartment for her permanent home. Just before leaving for the East Mrs. Ervin spent a few days in Kansas City with Mr. and Mrs. Nick P. Cave, who have often visited here.

Mrs. James J. Gushaw, 1107 Pine Tree lane, and her sons, Gregory Vance and James Bradford Gushaw, are visiting relatives in Greenfield, Worcester and Boston before going to Cape Cod where they have a cottage for several weeks. Mr. Gushaw will join them later this month for his vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Lawrence Craig, 474 Oak street, and their daughters, Miss Patricia and Miss Sharon Craig, have returned home from a two-week holiday. After spending several days in Miami, Fla., they flew to Havana where they were the guests at the Hotel Presidente for the rest of their vacation.

Potato, Clam Chowder

Ingredients: One can (10 1/4 ounces) frozen condensed cream of potato soup, one can (seven ounces) minced fresh or dried shredded green onion tops, one teaspoon minced fresh or dried shredded parsley.

Method: Remove soup from can into saucepan. Using soup can as measure, add one can (one and one-fourth cups) milk. Heat slowly, stirring often, until soup thaws; bring quickly to a boil, then turn heat low. (Don't worry if soup looks curdly while thawing; it will get smooth when it comes to a boil.) Add clams, including liquid in can, along with green onions and parsley. Reheat but do not boil or clams will toughen. Serve at once. Makes five portions if soup is served in small bouillon cups.

Note: Minced chives may be substituted for the green onion tops.

Martha Carr's

Dear Martha:

MY husband died last year, leaving me with our three children. I love my children very much and I am anxious for them to grow up to be fine young men and women. For the last few months I have had several dates with a widower who also has children. We have lots in common and have even talked about being married some day. Martha, do you think that would be wise? Our children are about the same ages and seem to get along fine together. I respect your judgment and would like to know what you think.

N.E.C.

An outsider, knowing only the facts you have presented, would be taking far too much on her shoulders to give you a flat yes or no answer. But I'll be glad to tell you my views on the subject. In the first place, I think widows and widowers often are so anxious to get married again that they blind themselves completely to the vital questions involved. It isn't easy for either to rear children alone, but loneliness and weariness are infinitely better than a bad marriage. So, don't marry just for the sake of being married. Even alone, you can lead a rich and a full and a reasonably happy life, more independent than you would be with a husband to care for. On the other hand, if he is a good man, if you have a common religious faith, similar standards of conduct, enjoy mutual friends, if you are proud of one another, if neither is jealous or possessive, if both are generous-hearted and kind, then your marriage has every chance of success and you and he could expect to find a great deal of happiness and contentment.

Dear Martha:

IT'S A SHAME the way mothers-in-law are crucified. When a man must be constantly on the alert that his wife and mother are going to quarrel, he must be the most miserable person on earth. If mothers would only teach their daughters to treat their in-laws as they treat their own families we would not have so much trouble. If a wife can turn her husband from his mother, some other girl will be able to do the same thing some day to her. A thoughtless son will be a thoughtless husband. Let's forget all this in-law stuff and get a little human in our dealings with the mother of the one we love.

Dear Martha:

I GO WITH A YOUNG MAN 21 YEARS OLD. My parents say he is no good and I will get a bad reputation by associating with him. My friends say he left a string of broken hearts behind him. In fact, I have heard nothing but bad things about him. I love him very much and I truly believe he loves me. What should I do?

A GIRL IN LOVE.

I think you'd better stop, look and listen—not to malicious gossip but to honest warnings about his character. You may be so much in love that you have let yourself be blinded to his faults. I can't believe that everyone would be against him if there weren't something seriously the matter. So try your best to stand off and look at this situation squarely and honestly, and see if you could be making a pretty tragic mistake by going steady with him.

Etiquette Questions

By Amy Vanderbilt

READER writes: "I am going to be in a friend's wedding and plan to give her the bridesmaids' luncheon. Will you please answer the following questions: Should I give a small gift only to the bride at the luncheon, or am I supposed to give one to all of the bridesmaids? Two, should there be an odd number at the table and should the bride have the privilege of asking another person outside of the bridesmaids? Three, if the bride's grandmother lives in the same town, should she be invited as well as the bride's mother? Four, how shall we decorate the table? Five, can I invite guests by telephone?"

—Mrs. C.M.S.

The bridesmaids' luncheon is a festive affair, sometimes given by the bride herself, sometimes by a close friend of the family, sometimes, as in your case, by an attendant, and also by the maid of honor.

The table is decorated with pastel flowers. There are often individual corsages for the bridesmaids as place favors, but there is no exchange of gifts. Generally, the bride gives her attendants their gifts quite informally at a simple luncheon or a tea the day before the wedding.

At the bridesmaids' luncheon the mother of the bride and the mother of the groom are usually present, but usually no outsiders. However I see no objection to asking the bride's grandmother. The invitations are as a rule sent by mail—and gay party invitations may be used—but, of course they can be telephoned.

I supposed to give one to all of the bridesmaids? Two, should there be an odd number at the table and should the bride have the privilege of asking another person outside of the bridesmaids? Three, if the bride's grandmother lives in the same town, should she be invited as well as the bride's mother? Four, how shall we decorate the table? Five, can I invite guests by telephone?

Beauty After 40

By Edyth Thornton McLeod

AFTER a visit to the tropics I find my skin quite tanned. I would like to bleach it but I cannot use any cosmetic bleaches as they irritate my skin.

Why not try this mild but effective homemade bleach? Mix the white of one egg with the juice of one large lemon. Blend in sufficient almond meal to make a thin paste. Buy the almond meal at your drug store. Apply the mixture to your skin with your fingertips in a layer about as thick as a half dollar.

Leave on until completely dry, then rinse off with warm water. Use this every day until you get the results you want. This is a slow but usually sure method.

"PLEASE SUGGEST MAKEUP for a large face with very coarse, red and oily skin.—Mrs. L."

You should cleanse the skin well and then go over it with a pad of cotton saturated with witch hazel. Then blend on a makeup lotion in a beige tone. Be sure to select a real beige tone without any pink cast. Stroke the lotion on until perfectly blended, then blot dry with cosmetic tissues. No rouge is necessary. Pat and brush on a beige-toned face powder until you have a mat finish. A soft rose-red lipstick, a high hairdo and a "V" neckline will be added attractions. Perhaps you need a change of diet as indicated by the coarse skin and the oily condition.

"ARE LONG SATIN GLOVES CORRECT to wear with a satin dinner dress? I live in a small town and cannot buy satin gloves, so what should I do?—T.A."

Satin gloves to match your dress are very smart. If you are clever about sewing you can buy patterns for gloves and make them or you can trim a pair of gloves with satin. You can apply tiny bows or diamond shaped pieces or add a wide, flaring cuff of satin.

All Foods Supply Heat To the Body

By Edith M. Barber

HOW can we avoid "heating" foods in summer? Just as regularly as the seasons roll around, but early or late according to the weather, this question comes to a food editor.

Actually the only way to avoid "heating" foods would be to starve. As far as nutrition is concerned, every food, fortunately, provides heat and energy after it has been digested and absorbed. Weight for weight, some give more and some give less. No food, however, has any noticeable influence upon body heat.

In warm weather appetites may sag. We may enjoy what we call the lighter foods rather than those which make up a "heavy" meal. Occasionally on a hot night we may enjoy a cold meal. For this the necessary cooking is done earlier in the day, at least as far as the main dish is concerned. This may be accompanied by a hot vegetable that takes a very short time to cook.

If we do not serve this, we will probably like to have hot coffee or tea. Most of us feel the need of some warmth. When all food is cold the process of digestion may be slowed too much and this may be the cause of discomfort. Perhaps it should be mentioned that iced drinks should be sipped rather than taken in gulps. Otherwise we may falsely blame a food itself rather than the temperature at which it is served.

Perhaps the question of "heating" foods will be settled at least for this season.

Hearty Cole Slaw

One cup cooked or canned kidney beans; two cups shredded cabbage; one-half cup diced celery; one-third cup minced onion; strips cooked bacon, crumbled; two tablespoons vinegar; one-half cup mayonnaise; one teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon pepper.

Mix vegetables. Stir in bacon and vinegar. Add mayonnaise. Toss and season with salt and pepper. Serve on bed of lettuce or other salad greens. Yield: Six to eight servings.

Special Potato Salad

Six cold, boiled potatoes; two hard-cooked eggs; one medium onion, minced; two tablespoons vinegar; one teaspoon salt; one teaspoon mustard; speck pepper; one cup hot milk or cream; two tablespoons melted butter. Dice potatoes. Chop egg whites and add with minced onion. Mash the egg yolks. Stir in vinegar, salt, pepper and mustard. Beat in the hot milk or cream with egg yolk mixture and add hard-boiled eggs. Combine carefully, chill and serve on bed of salad greens.

In Hollywood

By Sheliah Graham

GLORIA VANDERBILT

is now keeping company with Rita Gam's ex, Sidney Lumet. Harry James joins his old boss, Benny Goodman, in "The Benny Goodman Story." Jerry Lewis' father, a veteran of 30 years in show business, is going into personal management of stars, but he won't handle Dean and Jerry. Dan Dailey called to say he's heading for Las Vegas, not for a divorce, but to make a movie for M-G-M—

"Weekend in Las Vegas." Audrey Hepburn and Mel Ferrer sold their St. Moritz home and are buying a villa in Rome. Richard Basehart and Valentina Cortese will be their neighbors—three miles away.

Jimmy Cagney looks like Barney Oldfield driving around in his Thunderbird. A Lysol (who drives a pink auto) and Dick Powell gave daughter Pamela a pink wristwatch and a pink-eyed poodle for her seventh birthday.

JIMMY WOLF is optimistic about getting Barbara Stanwyck or Bette Davis for the lead in "The Story of Esther Costello." Lana Turner is selling her new sports car. Hubby Lex Barker's longies were too uncomfortable. Ralph Meeker is serious about Denise Darcel. Susan Hayward promises that after "I'll Cry Tomorrow," she will rest until the fall.

Ann Miller will stop off in Madrid to house-guest with Ava Gardner when she makes a good-will tour of Europe for her

M-G-M bosses. Ava will have Annie with her during August, when Ava reigns as queen of the annual bullfighting festival.

BOB HOPE'S WIFE, Dolores, and their four children plan three months in Rome. Groucho Marx is just a little nonplussed by all the congratulations he's getting on the supposedly neat "film insertion" of his routine in "Remember 1938." Groucho says, "It was all done live, and I have the hard-work schedule to prove it."

Judy Holliday prefers New York City, but Columbia is looking frantically for a picture for Judy to lure her westward (after her return from Europe). All her pictures make money.

Producer Buddy Adler is planning to produce a jazz musical, tentatively titled "Solo," late this fall. Marlon Brando has been sent the first script draft to see if he is interested, since he has a commitment for one more picture at 20th Century-Fox. The bait for Marlon—he can play the bongo drums in it. How can he refuse?

Gene Tierney is sick or in love. She flew into town for added scenes for "Left Hand of God" and refused all party invitations, except one, and at this party even refused to dance with Clark Gable.

There's a song out about Daniel Boone now, but we doubt if it will ever be popular enough to force the re-lettering of all those T-shirts.

Complaints Against a Husband

By Ruth Millett

WHEN a wife wishes she could change her husband it is often for one of these reasons:

When they are out in public he pays too much attention to other women and not enough to his wife.

Whenever they go out together in the evening his wife has to drag him and listen all the while he gets dreads to how he dreads the evening.

Whenever she needs money she has to wheedle it out of him, even though the money may be for something as essential as groceries.

He doesn't care for her friends and doesn't make any effort to conceal the way he feels.

He pays too much attention to what his mother thinks and to the advice she offers him so freely.

He is a dull clod around the house, coming out from behind his newspaper or away from the TV set only to complain that the children are making too much noise.

He scatters his clothes and possessions all over the house and expects his wife to go along picking up behind him.

He's short on sweet talk and on compliments.

He has a low opinion of women in general, frequently expressed by the phrase, "If that isn't just like a woman!"

He rarely notices the things his wife does but is quick to spot and comment on the things she hasn't found time to do.

Any man who thinks his wife doesn't appreciate him might find the answer to why she doesn't in this list of complaints women often make against their husbands.

Homemade Syrup

Try serving this simple homemade syrup on French toast. Stir a quarter cup of water and two-thirds cup of firmly packed dark brown sugar together in a saucepan over low heat until the sugar dissolves. Boil for several minutes—or longer if necessary—to bring the syrup to a good pouring consistency.

International Pattern

SIMPLE lines with a special dash of detail make today's dress another winner by Alan Graham. Its closely curved bodice with taut bosom drapery and barely covered shoulders indicate some of the year's surer fashion news. The graceful, four-gored, gathered skirt is tapered at the waistline to eliminate unflattering in that area.

For a firm, trim neckline, we suggest peleron or lawn as interfacing. Smartly becoming to all women, you'll wear this lovely design all summer long made in linen, pique, shantung or novelty cottons; in faille or taffeta, it will be a perfect party dress for fall.

This pattern is cut to designer measurements, not standard pattern measurements.

The Dean Speaks Up—The White-Collar Pace That Kills

By Adele Starbird

THE men who die suddenly in the prime of life are not, as a rule, members of a trade union. They are professional men and junior executives, the men just past the middle rungs on the ladder of success. They die from lack of sleep, killed by public relations.

The working man puts in his allotted number of hours, in many cases using his muscles; he comes home tired and relaxed. He comes home to a wife who also is tired; she has been baking or cleaning, and the last thing she craves is a big evening out.

Their mutual fatigue is a safety factor. They go to an early movie or watch television, or drop in on some friends. Whatever they do is done from choice, simply because it gives them pleasure and diversion. There is no driving motive behind it. It ends at a reasonable hour and they have enough sleep.

The successful young man of the white collar and the properly casual handkerchief comes home from his office, having done nothing more strenuous physically than signing his name. But the day has been full of little frictions, decisions, jockeying for place, competitive squeeze and disappointments. He feels like a bunch of ravelings all tangled and matted, and inside of him something quivers, a sign of life in the ravelings.

HIS WIFE has his dinner clothes laid out. He protests that he will not go out again, not tonight. They were out last night. He is too tired, and that is flat and final. "Don't be silly," she says, serene and ruthless. "Of course you're going out. Go take a cold shower, and I'll fix a drink for you. You'll be all right. You mustn't give in to yourself. I never saw such a baby. The Gilt-edges are going to be the party," she concludes with a significant glance.

The Gilt-edges settle it. If he is an orthodontist, they have four children with crooked teeth; if he is a broker, they control investment funds; if he is a lawyer or a doctor or an architect, the evening may eventually be worth thousands of dollars to him, always provided that he makes a good impression.

The Gilt-edges are not people; they are an account. Even if he fails to land them as clients, it means something to be seen with them. It is the only form of advertising he is permitted to do.

SO HE GOES TO THE PARTY, and for several hours he and his wife work hard. They are affable and charming—and alert. Their public relations were never better. The next morning early, he gets up stealthily so as to allow his wife to sleep, and hurries to the office. He may have to plead a case in court, he may have to put over a sale. In any case, he needs all his wits about him. With great effort and some black coffee, he pulls himself together.

A few years like that, and it is all over. His widow mourns him sincerely and gets a job. For a while she has the dubious pleasure of being the extra woman at a party; gradually she drops out or is dropped. The working man and his wife have the best of it. Free from intense social pressures, they enjoy life, they save money, they get enough sleep and they grow old together.

Bouncing Baby Potatoes
Ingredients: Four medium-sized baking potatoes (about one and one-half pounds), two tablespoons butter or margarine, one-fourth cup heavy cream, one-half teaspoon salt, dash of pepper, two eggs, one-fourth cup grated Parmesan cheese, two tablespoons mayonnaise, paprika.
Method: Scrub potatoes with water. Bake in hot (425 degrees) oven until soft through—45 minutes to one hour. (Leave oven on.) Cut a thin lengthwise slice from top of each potato; scoop out pulp into bowl. Stir in butter until it melts, then cream, salt and pepper. Beat eggs until thick and ivory colored; add potatoes and beat gently until smooth. Spoon back into scooped-out shells, piling high. Mix Parmesan cheese and mayonnaise with teaspoon and small spatula, drop blobs of mixture over top of potatoes; sprinkle lightly with paprika. Place on baking sheet and return to oven to heat through and until tops brown—about 15 minutes. Serve at once. Makes four servings.

Low Temperatures and Areas of Precipitation Expected Tonight

Weather conditions as of 1:30 a.m., C.D.T., July 5. Temperature figures show average for area. Arrows denote wind flow; shaded areas indicate rain. Barometric highs and lows in inches.

FORECAST

The temperature rose above 90 yesterday for the fifth straight day and the seventh time this year. It was 94 at 3:30 p.m. Last year at this time there had been 24 days of 90 or higher temperature.

The coolest temperature yesterday was registered one hour later than the warmest, as the mercury dropped to 88 at 4:30 p.m. in the midst of local thunder showers that fell over the city and county, mixed with some hail. A total of 89 inch of rain was recorded in downtown St. Louis.

The outlook for the next several days is for more weather in the 90s, Weatherman Harry F. Wahlgren reported this morning. "At least we'll have company in our misery, for the outlook nationally is for more hot weather," he observed.

In Missouri yesterday the highest temperature was 97 at Malden. The lowest maximum reported was 88 at Vichy. This morning the thermometer dropped as low as 88 at Farmington.

Wahlgren reported that it was a warm front of July in most parts of the country, with temperatures in the 90s common. The highest for the day was 104, reported from Tucson and Gila Bend, Ariz., and from Presidio, Tex. The coolest place was Tatooch Island, Wash., where the high for the day was 56.

Uncle Ray's Column
By Ramon Coffman

PEOPLE have many questions about prehistoric animals. One question will be taken up today, and I shall discuss others later this week.

Q. How do scientists know the order in which various animals appeared on the earth?

A. They study the record of the rocks. Many rocks are composed of mud or sand, and the material in them was laid down by rivers. Sometimes the material grew into a huge delta, like the modern delta of the Nile.

As time went on, the mud and sand hardened into layers of rock. Mud-made rock is called shale, and the rock composed of sand is known as sandstone. A third kind of rock, limestone, is composed largely of the limy material left by countless shellfish.

When early animals died, some of them left skeletons where they could be preserved. When we find their bones in a layer of rock, we know that the animals lived shortly before that rock was formed by the hardening of soft material.

In the normal course of events, the bones in the lowest layers of rock would be the oldest. Above them would be the remains of animals which lived during later periods.

That is the natural story, but it has been upset by the rising and sinking of rock in various parts of the earth's surface. Huge mountains like the Rockies, for example, have risen in some places, and low layers of rock have been pushed to high points.

Despite such trouble, scientists are able to keep track of the rock layers. Usually they can tell the period in which a layer was formed by locating certain fossils. Devonian rocks contain the fossils of animals which differed from those of the Permian Period or the Jurassic Period.

A geologist knows the "key" fossils which appear in rock layers of different ages. This makes it possible for him to
